

Asks Addition Of 150 Million To Relief Fund

'Emergency' Forces Quick Action, Roosevelt Says

SIGNS MEASURE

Asserts WPA Will be Forced to Reduce Its Rolls

Washington—President Roosevelt today told congress today an "emergency" exists in relief and asked "immediate consideration" of an additional appropriation of $150,000,000 for WPA for the next five months.

This figure represents the cut congress made in his request for $875,000,000 to carry WPA from February through June. The White House announced earlier today the president had signed the $725,000,000 bill last Saturday.

In asking immediate consideration on what he termed the "simple and alarming facts" in the relief outlook, Mr. Roosevelt said in a message to congress that with only $725,000,000 available, WPA either must reduce its rolls abruptly on April 1 by 1,000,000 persons or begin on that date a week-by-week reduction which by June 30 would drop employment from a present 3,000,000 to "a figure well below 1,500,000 persons."

Drastic Reduction

"In other words," the president said, "the program of present employment would be slashed considerably more than one-half within a period of three months."

"If, however, proper reserve were maintained at the end of the fiscal year, employment at the end of June would drop still further—to a figure of only slightly more than 1,000,000 persons."

"Therefore, on a program of gradual reduction, from 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 persons would be thrown out of work progress administration employment—or, with the addition of those dependent on them, from 6,000,000 to 8,000,000 Americans would no longer receive federal government aid."

Discussing the prohibition written into the relief bill against reducing WPA rolls by more than 5 per cent during February and March, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"No immediate cut."

"The need of these people is so apparent and so deserving that the rolls, in human decency, ought not to be reduced during February and March by even 5 per cent. After conferences with the WPA it has been determined for the above reason to hold the rolls at the present figure of 3,000,000 persons during these two months."

The chief executive said he would have withheld approval of the $725,000,000 bill on grounds of inadequacy to meet human need had congress not included the 5 per cent cut limitation.

"This proviso," the president declared, "leads to the conclusion that the congress stands ready during the balance of February and the month of March to reconsider actual needs in time to increase before April 1 the appropriation for the last three months of the fiscal year."

Lists 'Facts'

Mr. Roosevelt said in his message that the "facts" constituting an emergency were these:

1—that the WPA rolls should be held at their present 3,000,000 through February and March to

State Senate Votes To Abolish Department of Commerce, 19-11; Assembly Action Still Needed

County Judge Gets Recall Petitions From Clintonville

Mayor Washburn Charged With Malfeasance In Office

Wausau—County Judge A. M. Scheller today had under consideration charges of malfeasance against Mayor A. A. Washburn, Clintonville. The charges were contained in petitions bearing 607 signatures which allege the mayor "willfully failed or neglected" to enforce laws and permitted, city officers to draw pay for extra services in addition to their regular pay, in violation of the state statutes.

The petitions, which ask a recall election, were circulated by the Clintonville Taxpayers' league. Judge Scheller must determine within 10 days whether there are sufficient names to demand a recall election and to return the petitions to the Clintonville common council. If there is a sufficiency of names the council must call an election in not less than 40 nor more than 90 days.

Washburn, serving his second term as mayor, said at the time the petitions were being circulated that he had "nothing to apologize for" and that the petitions were being put out by a "small group of defeated and disgruntled citizens."

John Spengler, Clintonville attorney, will oppose Mayor Washburn in an election held, and which has been endorsed by the taxpayers' league.

Vets Oppose Bill to Drop Pensioned Labor

Madison—The Harrison Garner, chairman of the legislative committee on the Wisconsin department of the American Legion, said today that the Wisconsin Veterans' council would oppose passage of a bill forbidding employment of pensioned persons by the state and its political subdivisions.

The council, consisting of three representatives each from the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Disabled American Veterans, voted unanimously to oppose the measure sponsored by Assemblyman Alfred R. Ludvigsen (R), of Hartland.

Speech Controlled By Weather

Canadians are the most talkative people in the world, says a telephone expert. Each Canadian averages 227 phone calls per year. The U. S. average is 197. This is not surprising. Canada has a very cold climate and its inhabitants naturally require more heat than we do down here. In fact, a large proportion of telephone calls in the U. S. are used for classified want-ads which is a good thing all around, and there is no hot air in them. This one sold a good piano.

Marriage Not Enough Cause For Dismissal

Supreme Court Affirms Ruling Ordering Two Teachers Reinstated

TENURE LAW CASE

Legislature Can Give More Power to School Boards, Decision Says

Madison—The state supreme court today ruled that marriage is not a sufficient cause for the discharge of a public school teacher who has served her five year probationary period and secured tenure under the act of the 1937 legislature.

The high court affirmed decisions of the Milwaukee and Racine county circuit courts which ordered the reinstatement of two teachers dismissed at the end of the 1938 school term because they had married.

The teachers were Dorothy Ziegler Schmidding of School District 3 in town of Granville, Milwaukee county, and Mae Freeman Ryan a teacher in the Racine public schools.

Mrs. Schmidding married on Nov. 25, 1937, after she had started teaching for the term under her contract. Mrs. Ryan married on March 12, 1938. Both continued to teach until the end of the term.

In construing the tenure statute the supreme court said:

"It is our opinion that the legislature intended that teachers who had acquired a permanent status should be continued in employment during efficiency and good behavior and that the language 'until discharge for cause' was not intended to confer upon school boards the

Kentucky Flood Areas Ask Help

State Fears Belated News Of Disaster In Mountain Regions

Cincinnati—Fearing a belated report of disaster in flood-stricken mountain areas, Kentucky called for assistance today as the crest of the Ohio river moved past this city.

Dr. A. T. McCormack, state health commissioner at Louisville, said a heavy death list might be revealed in the eastern section where the Ohio's tributaries swept to hometop levels Sunday.

"This is the worst flood in the history of the mountains," said Dr. McCormack, asking for an appropriation from the emergency fund of the United States Public Health Service.

Across the river from Cincinnati, residents of Newport and Covington, Ky., retreated as the Ohio reached a crest here of 58 feet. Police Chief Leo Livingston of Newport estimated 600 families had been removed from homes. The water inundated 35 city blocks. Red Cross agencies were prepared to evacuate 1,200 families in the lowlands here.

Kentucky did not anticipate an emergency from the oncoming crest of the Ohio. Meteorologist J. L. Kendall at Louisville said the city had "a big margin of safety" with a predicted high of 54 feet.

House Military Group Gives Unanimous O. K. to Big Part Of Roosevelt Defense Plans

Washington—(R)—Chairman May (D-Ky.) said today the house military committee had unanimously approved legislation to authorize the major part of President Roosevelt's $552,000,000 special defense program, including expansion of the army air corps to 5,500 planes.

Action on the bill came, he said, after Republican members of the committee sought unsuccessfully to limit the war department to production of no more than 1,000 air planes in any fiscal year.

Representative Andrews (R-N.Y.), senior minority member, of the group, said the limitation proposal was defeated, 15 to 10, on a "straight party" vote.

May declined to say how the committee divided on his original proposal to give the air corps a total of 6,000 planes.

"The bridge is off," he asserted. "They can buy these planes as fast as they can be built."

Meanwhile, in another committee, the touchy issue of foreign policy—particularly toward Japan—bubbled up again.

"I am broadly supported by public opinion," Walker W. Van Kirk told the house naval committee, in stating that "nobody in this committee does not know what the foreign policy is—where the congress is drifting."

Van Kirk, who declared the navy's ideas for improving harbor facilities at the far Pacific island of Guam would be regarded by Japan as "provocative," said he spoke for 42 peace organizations in proposing a more deliberate course.

He asked that the navy's $65,000,000 air base program be delayed until a special congressional commission studied and reported on the nation's foreign policy.

The house shelved today a resolution calling on Secretary Hull to answer 12 questions involving the seizure of American properties in Mexico and American-Mexican relations.

Acting Chairman Bloom (D-N.Y.) told members that Hull had sent the foreign affairs committee such information as was deemed in the public interest and that it was on file.

New York Mayor Gives Strong Endorsement To Progressive

Washington—(R)—Mayor La Guardia of New York endorsed strongly today President Roosevelt's nomination of Thomas R. Amle to be a member of the interstate commerce commission.

As a senate interstate commerce committee continued hearings on Amle's appointment, La Guardia advised the group in a letter that he believed Amle "is a good American and a patriotic."

Amle, a Wisconsin Progressive, denied emphatically at a hearing yesterday that he was in sympathy with communism. He made a qualification statement that he favored government ownership of railroads.

At today's session, Luther M. Walter, Chicago attorney, continued testimony in opposition to Amle. He quoted from Amle's writings in an effort to show the latter was not qualified for the interstate commerce commission.

Amle's was one of two recent presidential nominations which drew objections. The other was that of Floyd H. Roberts, whom the senate refused to confirm as a federal judge in Virginia. White House officials said President Roosevelt would release late today a lengthy letter to Judge Roberts.

Will Publish Letter

With the letter, they said, the president would make public voluminous correspondence on the Roberts nomination, to review the whole controversy.

In his letter on Amle, La Guardia said that "there have been many gratuitous statements made against him that one in his favor would not be amiss."

Walter, in his testimony, read from Amle's book, "The Forgotten Man."

The book, comprising a series of questions and answers on political and economic problems, contained a query as to whether people like

Submits Report On Tax Proposal

Professor Says End of Exemptions Would Cost States 96 Million

Washington—(R)—A special senate committee received a report today that the states would lose $96,000,000 a year by elimination of existing tax exemptions on government securities.

The report was prepared by Dr. Harley L. Lutz, public finance professor at Princeton, at the request of Morris S. Tremaine, New York state comptroller. It was submitted at a hearing on President Roosevelt's recommendation that exemptions on governmental securities and salaries be wiped out.

Lutz said that if states were allowed to tax federal securities they would receive only $17,000,000 in additional revenue each year. Federal taxation of state securities would cost the states a minimum of $113,000,000 in increased interest costs, the report added, leaving the states a net loss of $96,000,000.

The report said the federal government would gain $204,000,000 a year in revenue if it could tax both state and federal securities. But, it was added, the government would lose $187,000,000 in added interest costs, leaving a "profit" of only $17,000,000.

Would Tax Incomes Over $100 Monthly To Finance Pension

Washington—(R)—Congressman Leavy (D-Wash.) told the house ways and means committee today the general welfare pension plan would "aid greatly in solving the economic problems" of the nation.

"It doesn't add to the national debt," he said, "because the dollars collected are the dollars spent."

Testifying at hearings on proposed amendments to the social security act, Leavy asserted:

"If by reason of technological improvements—and all these things ought to be a blessing to us—we are going to have a permanent army of unemployed, that group ought to be the older folks and not the younger folks."

He said apparently his permanent group would be six, eight or ten million.

The general welfare pension program contemplates monthly benefits of $30 to $60 for persons over 60, to be paid from returns from a 2 per cent gross income tax on monthly income in excess of $100.

Daladier Wins Victory In Chamber of Deputies

Paris—(R)—Premier Daladier won a victory in the chamber of deputies today by defeating a socialist proposal to grant a blanket amnesty to all workers who participated in the general strike of Nov. 11. The vote was 334 to 280.

The premier urged that the question of reducing penalties for strikers and provocateurs should be left to the ministry of justice for determination within six months.

Auto Racer Critically Hurt in Traffic Crash

Indianapolis—(R)—An ordinary highway accident put William C. (Wild Bill) Cummings, 32, of Indianapolis nearer death today than ever before in years of automobile racing highlighted by his winning the 1934 500-mile race here.

His passenger car hit a soft shoulder near here last night, ploughed through a rail guard and bridge approach and tumbled 50 feet into a ditch, throwing him on his face into two feet of water. Passers-by pulled him out unconscious and saved him from drowning.

He was reported in critical condition from possible brain concussion in a hospital today.

Peace Talk Grows But Embassy Says War to Continue

Say Negrin Is Preparing To Resist 'The End'

PARLEYS STARTED

Britain and France May Recognize Franco Government

London—(R)—The Spanish government embassy announced today the government of Premier Juan Negrin would proceed to Valencia "before the end of this week" and "continue resistance to the end."

The announcement made no mention of negotiations at the French-Spanish border for peace in the two and one-half year old Spanish civil war but indicated at least a temporary refusal of the insurgent demand that the government surrender unconditionally.

British foreign office officials said today Great Britain and France were considering recognition of the insurgent regime of Generalissimo Francisco Franco as the sole official government in Spain.

Spanish insurgent authorities in London said Franco had not yet asked for de jure recognition of his government.

British officials said, however, that unless Franco were recognized soon the insurgents would look entirely to Germany and Italy for aid in rehabilitating Spain.

In diplomatic quarters it was stated Britain might even offer immediate recognition of Franco provided he agrees to end hostilities at once.

This suggestion, however, had not yet been raised officially and it was believed generally to have little chance of success under the Spanish government's current policy.

Island Occupation

Britain and France were understood to have pointed out to Franco that the government-held Balearic island of Minorca in the Mediterranean must be occupied not by Italian or German forces but solely by Spaniards before London and Paris could recognize the insurgent regime.

Frequent reports that Italian troops control Mallorca, largest of the Balearic islands, has caused anxiety here since these islands are close to France's line of communications with her African possessions.

Diplomatic quarters in Paris said Franco had given a promise of friendly relations between the "new Spain" and France. Senator Leon Berard, semi-official French envoy to Burgos, was said to be on his way back to Paris "highly satisfied" with exploratory talks with insurgent leaders.

NO. U. S. ACTION

Washington—(R)—United States recognition of the Franco regime in Spain is not now under consideration, a state department official said today.

Commenting on dispatches from London that Britain and France were considering recognizing Franco's government as the sole official government of Spain, an official asserted that no request for such recognition had been received through diplomatic channels by this government.

Jap Admiral Comments On Guam Defense Plan

Tokio—(R)—Naval Minister Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai told the diet today that fortification of the American island of Guam would weaken the United States defense in the Pacific and added that the Japanese navy attached no importance to reports this was being considered.

Admiral Yonai said in answer to a question:

"Presently there is no reason for tension between Japan and the United States. It is a gross misunderstanding to believe that the United States has aggressive designs upon Japan. However, to erect a fortress at a spot so far from a country is bound to weaken that country's defenses."

"So, if the United States fortify Guam, all we can say is that we will feel sorry for the United States. Under the circumstances the navy is not attaching much importance to the Guam issue."

The phrase "feel sorry" was said by Japanese to mean this nation would regret if the United States felt it necessary to increase Pacific armaments but that no threat was implied.

A second amendment to the Daugers bill for establishing a new department of agriculture and markets was submitted today by Rice (R), of Delaware. It would create a seven man board and director without residence or party requirements for membership.

The assembly by a vote of 71 to 18 laid over until tomorrow a bill by Daugers (D), Ft. Atkinson, setting up non-partisan election of county officers.

It referred to committee a joint resolution by Kennedy (R), Amery, authorizing congress to pass the "agricultural equality act" guaranteeing farmers cost of production.

Appropriation of $50,000 each for free distribution of hog cholera serum and horse sleeping sickness serum was asked in two bills introduced by Swanson.

Ammon Revamps Standards Body After 2-Day Quiz

Klueter Relieved of Some Duties and Moore Is Demoted

Madison—(R)—Director Ralph E. Ammon reorganized the division of standards of the state department of agriculture and markets today in accordance with the recommendation of the advisory council that Harry Klueter be "relieved of some of the many duties of the division."

Moving swiftly after a two day hearing, department officials demoted J. W. Moore, cheese inspection supervisor who had charged Klueter failed to prosecute "flagrant violations" of laws and regulations.

The reorganization program also included creation of a new division of dairy inspection, dairy products, grading and milk control, a separate division of weights and measures, and transfer of fruit and vegetable inspection to the division of markets.

Ammon announced George Kuennen, supervisor of milk control under the old setup, has been appointed director of the new dairy division, and that Emil Zorn, chief cheese grader at Green Bay, would be offered the post of supervisor of all cheese inspection.

The shakedown followed an investigation of charges made by Moore last week at a departmental meeting in Oshkosh that Klueter had been lax in inspection enforcement.

With all directors attending, the advisory board began an executive session Saturday.

Four Legislators Charge Laxity and Friction In Department

Madison—(R)—Charging laxity in administration and enforcement of laws, friction between employees and executives, and "counter political activities," four legislators introduced a joint resolution in the assembly today for an investigation of the department of agriculture and markets.

The resolution, proposed by Bichler (D), Belgium, Miller (R), La Crosse, Shmuck (D), Algoma, and Swanson (P), Ellsworth, asked appointment of a joint committee of three assemblymen and two senators.

A second amendment to the Daugers bill for establishing a new department of agriculture and markets was submitted today by Rice (R), of Delaware. It would create a seven man board and director without residence or party requirements for membership.

The assembly by a vote of 71 to 18 laid over until tomorrow a bill by Daugers (D), Ft. Atkinson, setting up non-partisan election of county officers.

Senator Asked to Help Find Heir to 3 Estates

Washington—(R)—Search for an heir to three estates who may be on relief caused a firm of Milwaukee lawyers to appeal today to Senator Wiley (R-Wis.) to try to secure the address of the missing man from the social security board.

Perry J. Stearns of the law firm wrote the senator saying no trace could be found of Wallace Smith, last heard from in Seattle, Wash. He said Smith had a bequest coming to him from the estate of Frances W. Norris of the French government in his mother's estate in Des Moines, Iowa, and another estate in Wisconsin which he did not name.

Stearns said social security board officials had declined to give him any information concerning Smith. He asked the senator to try to get Smith's address saying he feared the heir might now be on relief.

WILL VISIT PARIS

Collonges, France—(R)—President Manuel Azana (above) of Spain disclosed today that he intends to go to Paris soon for conferences with Spanish government officials now in the French capital. Through his son-in-law, Alejandro Rivas Cherrif, he gave advance promise not to indulge in international politics or direct the Spanish government from France.

Insurgent Generalissimo Franco checked the pace of his armies marching through the northeastern province of Catalonia toward the French frontier while columns of defeated government troops and refugees withdrew into France.

Seeks Evacuation

Negrin was still in Spain this morning, but diplomatic sources said he was bending all his efforts toward orderly evacuation of his northern troops and the escape of refugees who had not yet crossed the border.

An official Spanish report said the premier, after a brief trip into France yesterday morning, spent the afternoon inspecting government troops covering the retreat along the Ter river, which rises in the Pyrenees near the frontier.

Foreign Minister Julio Alvarez del Vayo, who conferred with envoys of France and Great Britain last night at Le Perthus, remained in close touch with the two powers, which were understood to be consulting Franco in return.

Resistance Futile

Ralph Stevenson, British minister to Spain, was said by informed diplomatic sources to have told Alvarez del Vayo that France and Britain believed further resistance in central Spain would be useless.

At the same time it was reported Franco had assured France that complete occupation of northern Catalonia would be delayed long enough to permit orderly evacuation of government soldiers and refugees across the border.

Alvarez del Vayo was said to have reported these developments to Negrin in a small unidentified town on the Spanish side of the border during the night.

After the first negotiations broke down Saturday because of the Spanish government's demand for a plebiscite, diplomatic sources said the government had modified its demands and now was asking nothing except assurances that peace would bring no reprisals and would leave Spain independent.

Insurgents Close In

The insurgents gradually were closing in on the cornered government forces. Yesterday they planted their red and gold banners on the border of the little republic of Andorra on their left flank. In the center they were just south of the French-Spanish border, town of Puigcerda. On the right they were at the mouth of the Ter river, about 25 miles south of the border.

When they finally sweep up to the frontier, bringing to a new climax the march that started in Spanish Morocco July 18, 1936, the Spanish government—already forbidden to function on French soil—must make its final decision as to whether it will move to the central front or abandon the conflict.

French authorities arranged to accommodate a total of 270,000 Spanish troops and refugees, of whom 150,000 already had entered France.

Spanish government troops continued to move into concentration camps on the French side of the border. Civilian refugees were sent to shelters in the interior of France. Both troops and civilians were being maintained by the French government at a daily cost of about 10 francs (26 cents) a person.

Loyalist Leaders Reported Ready to Halt Strife

NEARING CLOSE?

British Minister Believes Further Resistance In Vain

Perpignan, France—(R)—An end to the civil war which has paralyzed Spain and endangered the peace of Europe for 30 months appeared imminent today.

Dr. Juan Negrin, premier of government Spain, and his last ditch supporters were reported in diplomatic circles to be swinging around to the view that they must yield.

President Manuel Azana abandoned all appearances of clinging to his post as chief executive of the republic. After coming to France Sunday and staying a day near the frontier he went to a French retreat at Collonges, close to Geneva.

Fighting in northern Spain appeared to be over.

Insurgent Generalissimo Franco checked the pace of his armies marching through the northeastern province of Catalonia toward the French frontier while columns of defeated government troops and refugees withdrew into France.

Dinneen to Face Trial, Supreme Court Decides

Tribunal Limits Grounds Of Prosecution of Former Official

Madison—(7)—The state supreme court ruled today that William M. Dinneen, former secretary of the public service commission, must stand trial on charges of "malefeasance and misconduct" in office but limited the grounds of prosecution.

The case is an outgrowth of the collapse of the B. E. Buckman investment company of Madison and subsequent conviction of its officers on charges of violating the state securities law.

The court affirmed a decision of Circuit Judge A. C. Hoppmann which denied Dinneen a writ of habeas corpus, but the decision sustained many of the contentions of the former secretary's counsel that no evidence had been presented to support various charges made by the state.

Accused Of Fraud
Dinneen was accused of fraud against the commission, directing head of the securities division, through furnishing confidential information to the Buckman company and also was alleged to have violated the securities law.

The high court's decision, written by Justice Oscar M. Fritz, pointed out that several letters to the commission concerning the Buckman company had been found in the Buckman files, and that Dinneen had instructed a secretary to hold Buckman complaints for his attention and have copies made for him.

The court said that while Dinneen is entitled to show he was not responsible for any diversion of the documents they were "relevant and material" to the commission and there was probable cause to believe Dinneen had violated the section relating to duties in office.

The opinion said that documents in the commission files were open to public examination and if Dinneen merely gave the Buckman company copies or information "it would not warrant a conclusion that he thereby committed any criminal offense."

No Evidence On Letters
Neither was any evidence offered, the opinion said, that Dinneen furnished letters to the Buckman company "to silence complaints regarding it or its transactions, or avoid investigation by the commission."

"In the absence of such evidence there is no occasion to determine whether such an offense on his part would constitute a criminal offense," the decision declared.

Justice Fritz held there was no evidence of Dinneen having violated the securities law, since that act pertains solely to securities dealers, and that the trial court's suggestion Dinneen had committed a "gross fraud or cheat at common law" without basis.

As to Dinneen's failure to register complaints against the Buckman company the supreme court said that was not his duty.

Megrew Is Chairman Of Picture Exhibits

Alden F. Megrew, instructor in art history and appreciation at Lawrence college, was elected chairman in charge of the circulating picture exhibitions at a meeting of the Midwest Art conference last weekend on the University of Iowa campus at Iowa city.

The conference, which drew up of universities and colleges in five midwestern states, Minnesota, Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, and Iowa, efforts at establishing uniformity in art courses and raising the standards of instruction were made at the meeting.

Doctors Finish Tests Of Seniors at School

Physical examinations for Appleton high school seniors were completed today, according to H. H. Helbie, principal. All seniors were given complete examinations and all who wished it were given tuberculin skin tests. Examination of juniors will start Wednesday and sophomore will be given examinations next week. The tests are being given by Appleton doctors assisted by school nurses and teachers.

Legislators Getting Restless As They Await Word From Heil

BY JOHN W. WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Restlessness in the state legislature, which has been marking time for four weeks on relatively unimportant matters, heightened today as no signs appeared on what the Heil administration program during the legislative session is going to be.

House leaders whose job it is to keep the coalition majority in line for the administration's policies privately expressed alarm today at growing signs of restiveness and criticism from those members who feel that Governor Heil must soon offer explanations for the absence of suggestions for legislation which he favors, or will propose.

The exception of the budget message, Governor Heil during his five weeks in office has not yet revealed what his plans are on legislation. The situation this year is more uncomfortable than usual, because of the unusual number of controversial measures already introduced which must be given attention soon.

There are tax bills, dozens of appropriation bills, state aid bills, farm bills, labor bills, pension bills, and many others. In the Wisconsin legislative system legislation cannot be sidetracked, but not for long. Without definite word from the executive, legislative leaders are in a quandary.

Pension Payments Total $25,171 in County for Month

Old age and blind pensions and aid to dependent children payments last month amounted to $25,171.44 in Outagamie county, according to a report of Taber S. Davis, pension director.

The largest amount, $14,821.47, was paid in old age pensions as against $14,448.45 for December. During the month 18 cases were added to the list and 6 dropped, leaving a total of 679.

Aid to dependent children amounted to $9,495.22 as compared to $9,539.59 in December. Six cases were added and two dropped during the month, leaving a total of 308 cases.

Payments to the blind in January totaled $1,054.75, a drop from the $1,094 paid in December. At the end of January there were 49 cases on the active list, three cases being dropped during the month.

Field Officer of Church to Attend State Conference

Four Members of St. Joseph Choir Will be Honored at Banquet

Meetings in Wausau and Milwaukee are claiming the attention of two Appleton clergymen this week. The Rev. John Wilson, field superintendent of the Congregational church, will go to Milwaukee Thursday to attend a meeting of the Wisconsin Council of Churches. Dr. Wilson is head of the council's committee on church unity.

The Rev. E. Schlagenhauf, district superintendent of the Methodist church, was in Wausau yesterday to conduct a quarterly conference at the Methodist church there.

Other church events this week include the banquet Thursday night at St. Joseph's hall at which the guests of honor will be four members of the choir of St. Joseph's Catholic church who have been with the choir for 25 years. They are Miss Helen Pleier, Miss Adelaide Schueller, Henry E. Roemer and Henry S. Griesbach.

Missionary Sunday was observed at the New Appleton tabernacle, with a communion service in the afternoon and an evangelistic service in the evening.

"Spirit" was the subject of the lesson-sermon Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist. The following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, were included: "Divine science reverses the false testimony of the material senses, and thus tears away the foundations of error. Hence the enmity between science and the senses, and the impossibility of attaining perfect understanding full the errors of sense are eliminated. God never ordained a material law to annul the spiritual law. If there were such a material law, it would oppose the supremacy of spirit, God, and impugn the wisdom of the creator. Jesus walked on the waves, fed the multitude, healed the sick, and raised the dead in direct opposition to material laws. His acts were the demonstration of science, overcoming the false claims of material sense or law."

Franco to be 'Big Boss' Even If Bourbons Return to Throne

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
New York—(7)—Europe is now up against the ultimate and far-reaching problem towards which the bloody Spanish civil war has been driving for two and a half terrible years—the form and composition of the government that shall rule the land of the don.

That is the issue, which impelled Italy and Germany and Portugal to intervene in this family quarrel and aid the insurgents, and which brought help to the constitutional government from Russia and France among others.

It is what on numerous occasions all but precipitated a general European war. The revolution had ceased to be strictly Spanish, and had become international, before the first gun was fired.

Now Insurgent Generalissimo Franco is close enough to final victory to have to do the magic trick and produce the solution for which the world has been waiting. Upon the deftness of his hand may depend the trend of momentous events quite outside the confines of his own country.

Thus far Franco has kept his secret locked within himself, as regards the public. These strong probabilities, however, have been forecast by numerous events.

There likely will be some form of totalitarian government. Whatever the government may be, the 46-year-old Franco will be the big boss, irrespective of what title he may bear.

Also, it's a good bet as yet other that the Bourbon monarchy will be restored, even if there is a totalitarian state.

Franco himself made it clear long ago that he could work with the restored monarchy, and said this might come to pass.

Lake Winnebago Outlet Once Near High Cliff
The outlet of Lake Winnebago was once a stream that ran west of High Cliff and joined the Manitowish river to empty into Lake Michigan, County Judge Fred V. Heinemann told members of the Lions club at a noon luncheon yesterday in the Conway hotel.

Judge Heinemann, speaking on the history of the Fox river, said that a change in land formation altered the level of the lake and made the present Fox river the outlet. He discussed early navigation on the river.

Influenza Forces Pontiff to Cancel All His Audiences

the Holy See and the Italian state, and the pontiff was to address all Italian archbishops and bishops in private audience, during which it was believed he would explain the present status of relations between the Vatican and the fascist regime.

These relations recently have become strained as a result of fascist racial laws and fascist treatment of Catholic Action, a church organization.

On Sunday the pope planned to attend a pontifical mass at St. Peter's cathedral to celebrate the seventeenth anniversary of his coronation.

The illness today was the first for his holiness since he was stricken seriously with a heart attack Nov. 25.

Although he recovered from that illness, his physicians expressed concern lest weakened health make it difficult for him to resist another serious attack.

4 Security Dealers Are Freed as Result Of Court's Decision

Madison—(7)—Four Milwaukee securities dealers, William A. Kenyon, Leon B. Smith and William and Robert C. Unger, were freed by the supreme court today of charges that they violated the state securities law.

The court reversed sentences of one to two years against the Ungers, who were charged with illegal sale of short term notes of Tung Industries, Inc., containing a clause that allowed conversion of the notes into common stock of the concern, which was not registered for sale.

The Ungers were tried in Sheboygan county for the sale of warehouse receipts in that area. Kenyon and Smith were tried in Madison for sales in Dane county.

Ratio Is About 2 1/2 to 1, Colonel Wood Tells Legion
France and Germany are spending about two and a half times as much for armaments each year as the United States, Colonel Norman B. Wood, Two Rivers, commander of the 423rd infantry reserves, said in a talk before the Once Johnson post of the American Legion last night at the clubhouse.

Colonel Wood said that America "sold out" the navy in 1921 when it launched a disarmament program and "used ships for target practice." The American navy is only about 75 per cent of what it should be, Colonel Wood said, but an energetic building program could soon bring it up to its proper strength.

He cited the menacing rise in power of belligerent countries like Germany, Italy, and Japan as reason for America to increase its military resources.

Revise Election Board Personnel Under New System

Groups Named to Serve at Polling Places Under 18-Ward Plan

Revised election board personnel, necessary because of the increase in Appleton from six to eighteen wards, was announced today by City Clerk Carl J. Becker.

The new appointments were made by the city clerk and Mayor Goodland after recommendations of the county political chairmen, Dr. C. L. Kolb, Republican, and Gustave J. Keller, Democrat.

The official election boards were appointed last spring for a period of two years after a decision of the state supreme court eliminated Progressives from membership on election boards.

However, the change in wards left many members living in different wards and away from the section served by a particular polling place. Building Total Jumps to $63,000 During January

Estimate Up From $17,700 Last Year; $37,870 in December

Remodeling work estimated at $58,000 boosted January's building total in Appleton to $63,000 compared to $17,700 last January, according to Albert C. Rule, city building inspector.

The high percentage of work gives the city a good start towards the goal of more than $750,000 in estimated building in 1939. The January total is almost double the December estimated figure of $37,870.

A single permit estimated at $50,000 for remodeling work at the Lincoln school building is responsible for most of the total. Six other remodeling permits estimated at $8,000 also were granted during the month.

Only one home estimated to cost $3,500 was started last month compared to none during January a year ago. In December, two new homes estimated at $7,500 were started.

A permit for a platform at a railroad station, estimated at $1,600, was the only other permit issued during the month.

Kaws Favored to Beat Menasha in Conference Game

Bluejays Will Invade Kaukauna Gymnasium Friday Night

Kaukauna — With their last non-league game out of the way, Kaukauna High school cagers are preparing this week for the first of four conference games which will wind up the 1938 season. The Kaws battle Menasha at 8 o'clock here Friday evening, with a game between the B squads slated for 7 o'clock. After the Menasha game the Kaws travel to New London and Shawano, and then entertain Clintonville in the season's final contest here.

In view of their strong showing last week when they trounced St. Mary's of Menasha, 28 to 24, the Kaws will be favored to take the measure of the Bluejays for the second time this season. On Dec. 16 a game at Menasha went to Kaukauna by the score of 26 to 18, with Bill Alger, Carl Giordana and Joe Bloch leading the attack with 9, 7 and 6 points, respectively. The 28 points rolled up against the Zephyrs put the Kaws on the plus side of the season's ledger, with 244 points to opponents' 240. Thus in 10 games the Kaws have averaged 24.4 points per game compared to opponents' 20 even.

Alger Top Scorer
Bill Alger continues to pace the Kaws individually, adding eight points last Friday to lead with 63. Following Alger is Carl Giordana with 40, Don Bielek with 36, Joe Bloch with 31, Paul Koch with 27, and John Swedberg with 26. Willis Riquette with 15 and Bob Derus with 2.

The work of Paul Koch in recent games has been especially pleasing, with the senior forward racking up 17 points in the last two contests in addition to playing a smooth floor game. Koch appears to have supplanted Joe Bloch at a regular forward post, starting the St. Mary game, while Bloch did not see any action at all.

The team will continue to stress defensive work this week. It was the all-around defensive play that led to the St. Mary's win. The Kaws have been scoring heavily in most of their contests but a comparatively weak defense has been responsible for most of the early season defeats. Kaukauna now holds third place in the conference race, with a good chance for second if Shawano defeats Neenah, now in second, Friday.

TVA Probe Group To Appear Before Congress, Report

Washington—(AP)—Unless Republicans upset present plans, the senate-house committee appointed to investigate the TVA will make its report to congress without additional public hearings.

Democratic members of the group, which was voted an additional $25,000 yesterday, said recent developments favored this course.

They referred to the agreement by TVA officials to purchase private utility properties of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation for about $80,000,000, and the recent supreme court decision that 14 private utilities had no basis for a suit against TVA.

"This just about takes all the sting out of criticism of the agency," said one Democratic committeeman, who asked that his name not be used.

Senator Davis (R-Pa.) and two house Republican members, Representatives Wolverton of New Jersey and Jenkins of Ohio had asked that 30 to 45 additional witnesses be called, including J. P. McCarll, former controller general of the United States who frequently questioned TVA expenditures.

The lecture will be open to anyone wishing to hear about Nohl's experiences.

Announce Reduction in Class Freight Rates

Madison—(AP)—The public service commission Monday announced a reduction in class freight rates ordered by the interstate commerce commission.

The reduced rates will eliminate advantages held by neighboring states over farmers and manufacturers of Wisconsin, the commission said. "New rates are substantially lower than the rates which have been charged by railroads previously."

As an example of lower schedules the commission cited reductions of 7 cents a 100 pounds on first class freight from Green Bay to New Orleans, 5 cents to Jacksonville, Fla., and 4 cents to Atlanta, Ga.; 5 cents a 100 from Portage to New Orleans.

The commission has filed objections with the I.C.C. against proposed special rates on fresh and green fruits, vegetables and melons, contending rates now being charged are unreasonable and that competing territories have lower schedules.

THREATENED FOR AIDING PICKETS

Mrs. Harry Bijur, who for three months has fed families of 26 striking employees of the apartment house in which she lives in New York, told police she had received death threats against herself and her two sons unless she ceased aiding the strikers. She is shown with a mysterious and unexplained "blot" composed of the strike picket's sign, a lettered shirt dicky and candles.

Snow, Steep Drop in Mercury, Is Prediction for This Area

The weather was in good spirits again in Appleton and vicinity today, what with sunshine and clear skies, but snow is on its way and the mercury is poised for a dive.

Snow tonight and tomorrow, with "much colder temperatures tomorrow," is the forecast for this area and the state in general issued today by the Milwaukee bureau.

The thermometer was at a 24-hour low at 6 o'clock this morning when it registered six above. Yesterday noon's reading of 36 above was the warmest during the period.

Snow storms lashed the northern Atlantic and Pacific coasts today while rising flood waters of the Ohio valley drew out new health and rescue agencies, the Associated Press reported.

While the Red Cross estimated the Ohio floods affected 10,000 families in five states, the Kentucky state health department rushed typhoid vaccine for 250,000 persons in stricken counties of the eastern Kentucky mountains.

Pneumonia, health workers said, was the greatest danger in the flood, described by the Kentucky state health commissioner as the worst in the history of the mountains.

The western storm covered northern Idaho and eastern Washington with snow of eight inches on the level and 20 in the hills. Drifts marooned 20 patrons of a Mount Hood resort.

New England was crippled by a snow storm that grounded planes and impeded sea and land traffic. Like a ranged from one to two inches in northern New England to five on Cape Cod.

Forecasters predicted the storm would abate late today and that the mercury would fall to 20.

Married Teachers Win Court Battle

right to discharge teachers for reasons other than those connected or associated with good behavior. "In our view that phrase adds no additional cause for discharge and that phrase... must be construed as embracing only such a cause as is of like kind and class with those designated by the specific words: 'efficiency and good behavior.'"

"If the legislature, in its wisdom, desires to authorize school boards to determine whether the best interests of the schools committed to their administration require the adoption of a policy against re-employment of teachers who have married, it can so declare by appropriately amending the present law."

The supreme court said that in neither the Milwaukee nor Racine case was any question raised as to the efficiency of the teacher.

The town of Granville board, however, had in its contract that teachers who married would not be re-employed and the school board contended that passage of the tenure act by the legislature illegally impaired its contract.

Board Waived Right
The court declared the right of the board to discharge Mrs. Schmidt upon her marriage had not been affected by the tenure law but the board waived any right to discharge her under the contract by permitting her to teach for the remainder of the term. Thus she acquired a permanent status, the court said.

In the Racine case the teacher contracts contained a clause that married women are not eligible for appointment, that, if they intended to marry, the superintendent should be notified and the appointment usually would be terminated at the close of the semester.

Mrs. Ryan did not have a formal contract for the year 1937-38 but did notify the superintendent of her intention to marry.

The rule that Mrs. Schmidt had acquired permanent status also applies in the case of Mrs. Ryan, the court held.

Remodeling Work On New City Hall Quarter Finished

Workmen Begin to Rebuild Partitions; Complete Vaults Today

Appleton's future city hall is a bee hive of activity as 26 workmen this week began to rebuild floors and walls ripped out to prepare for remodeling of the Lincoln school building.

Hugo Lemke, of the Nimmer and Lemke Construction company, Kaukauna, this morning estimated the job is about 25 per cent completed. The building is a shambles presently with the concrete floors broken out, gaping holes in walls where doors will be, the walls laid bare of plaster and partitions broken out where new rooms will be built.

Workmen today were placing huge steel beams from reinforcing walls to the roof to brace that part of the roof which is over the opening for the future council chamber, a large room in the middle of the second floor running the width of the building.

Complete Vaults
The third and last concrete and brick vault was being finished by masons today. The other two were completed last week, one for the assessor, one for the city engineer and a large vault that will be used jointly by the city clerk and treasurer.

Carpenters are working on partitions which will separate the new offices in the first floor and others that will set off the new council chambers.

The large stone chimneys on the roof of the old school building, formerly used for ventilation, have been torn down and the stone will be salvaged for other purposes.

When the remodeling work is completed, the building will house offices for the mayor, city clerk, city treasurer, assessor, attorney, health department, relief department and the city council.

Cost of the city hall will be about $73,000 of which 45 per cent will be paid by PWA.

George Driessen, Sr., 226 E. McKinley street, asks $15,000 damages from Robert Moder, 1309 S. Monroe street, and the Wisconsin Mutual Insurance company in a suit which opened yesterday before an 11-man jury in municipal court of Judge Thomas H. Ryan. Taking testimony continued this morning.

Driessen claims he was injured while riding a bicycle on S. Oneida street on Dec. 7, 1937 when struck by a car driven by Moder.

Members of the jury are Emil Springstroh, P. N. Diny, Martin P. Cahill, George Rechner, Eugene Daschelet, Matthew Smith, J. L. Paver, William Lyons, Fred Sievert, Paul Wilke, Mark Baumgartner and Fred Giese.

The Brebner-Sinz company was given the contract for supplying the season's supply of grease. L. L. Doerfler and the Marston Bros. company each was given a contract for furnishing a tank car of gasoline.

Bids for the season's supply of tires will be taken by the committee until next Monday.

Woman Defies Threats; Will Picket Apartment

New York—(AP)—Death threats won't keep Mrs. Harry Bijur from picketing the apartment house where she lives.

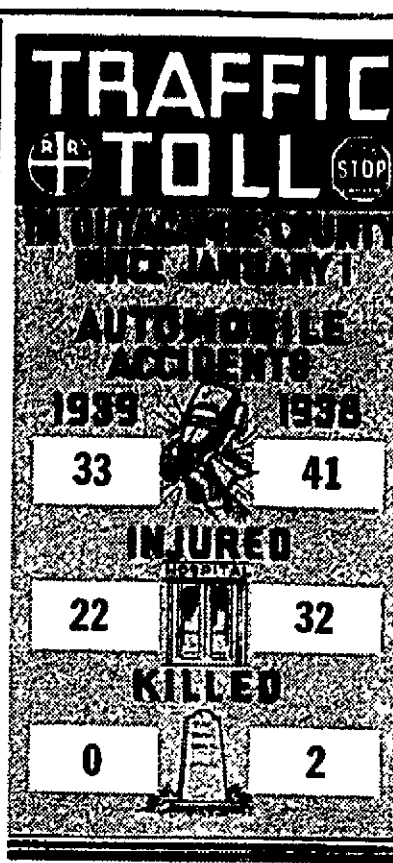

The pretty matron, who has spent more than $3,000 in food and medical bills for striking building service employees since November 9, said she would continue helping them despite anonymous telephone threats against the lives of herself and her two sons.

Mrs. Bijur has marched regularly with the strikers in a picket line before the fashionable Central Park west apartment house where she lives.

It Is Said--

That Edith Tubbs, 727 N. Locust street, saw a robin on Oklahoma street yesterday. The merry chirping of the bird yesterday has probably turned to a chilly tune this morning with the drop in temperature.

That Rudolph Breitung, 513 N. Division street, saw his first robin of the year today and quickly made friends because, apparently, the bird was hungry and the food situation wasn't so good. Breitung is feeding the robin until it can find food for itself.

Quotes Amle in Attack on Record

Vincent Astor, (who has been a host on his yacht to President Roosevelt) should be permitted to retain yachts if the economic system were overhauled.

Walter read the answer as follows:

"Certainly. We would be in favor of Vincent Astor going on 12-month cruises instead of 12-day cruises and taking his friends with him."

Laughter rang through the hearing room.

"So you can see," the witness continued, "why I have reason to believe that President Roosevelt was not familiar with this man's views when he appointed him."

Rapped Both Parties

Walter later offered testimony that Amle wrote in 1935:

"The difference between the Republican party and the Democratic party is the difference between two-tailed-dog and two-tailed-dog."

President Roosevelt, in an address last month, used the "two-tailed-dog" expression in referring to "nominal Democrats" who believe that "our party should be a conservative party—a Democratic two-tailed-dog to a Republican two-tailed-dog."

Other excerpts Walter read from Amle's book included:

"The New Deal... has decided to shut its eyes to the problem of 12,000,000 unemployed."

"National politics has degenerated into a scramble between Democrats and Republicans for conservative business support."

"There is no chance of liberalizing the Republican party."

"There does not seem any real likelihood that liberals can capture control of the Democratic party."

"The New Deal has set out to secure artificial scarcity by legislative means."

"Those who believe in production for use should join in a new party."

At one point, Chairman Johnson recalled that previous testimony indicated Amle sought to accomplish social and economic reforms "by constitutional means."

There was a burst of applause in the crowded hearing room.

Court Upholds Ruling On Insurance Payments

Madison—(AP)—The supreme court today affirmed a circuit court decision holding the Maryland Casualty company responsible for medical and hospital costs and future disability payments for Bertha Forness, a maid, who contracted tuberculosis in the Douglas county sanatorium.

At the same time the court denied the claim of Employers Mutual Liability Insurance company against the Maryland company for $2,800 it had paid out under the original workmen's compensation award to Miss Forness.

After making payments until 1937, the Employers Mutual asked to be released on the ground the Maryland company was the insurer of Douglas county at the time Miss Forness was afflicted in April, 1932. This contention was upheld by the industrial commission and circuit court, but they declined the request of the Employers Mutual for reimbursement. The supreme court upheld the rulings in all respects.

DIES OF WOUND

Milwaukee—(AP)—Edward Gross, 14, died today of an infection which developed in an abdominal wound which he suffered while coasting last Saturday. When sliding down an embankment, the boy struck a metal rod projecting from the ground. It pierced his abdomen.

Future of WAA Is Waiting Action by State Lawmakers

Employees Keep on Working as They Wait For Decision

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Although they aren't sure who will be signing their pay checks in the future—or whether there will be pay-checks at all—members of the Wisconsin Agricultural authority continued plans today for a 1939 program of promoting all kinds of Wisconsin agricultural products, from peas through cherries and cheese.

Although Governor Heil omitted all reference to the WAA in his executive budget recommendations, a strong belief persisted in the capitol today that the administration will retain the WAA idea, although probably under different management and control.

There were suggestions in some capitol quarters that the Republican administration will transfer the authority to the department of agriculture and markets and thus make it a legal part of the state government—it is now a private corporation endowed with state funds—to supplement the present advertising work in that bureau which is financed by a special $75,000 annual appropriation.

Heil Wants Campaign
This belief is strengthened, capitol observers believe, by Governor Heil's previous statements that he will favor a bigger advertising program on a national scale to increase the consumption of state agricultural products, and particularly dairy products.

Against this, however, stood the fact that in Heil's budget calculations the department of agriculture and markets will get only $75,000, the same as in previous years, for dairy publicity and advertising.

It was reported by administration sources today also, that a program for state aid in the farming of marketing problems—which is about the only idea suggested in recent years in Wisconsin legislatures as an attack on the problem of prices and sales—has strong support among state farm organizations, particularly the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Producers' Union.

Officers of the WAA report that cheese men, pea growers and canners, cherry growers, and other special agricultural elements are cooperating enthusiastically with the authority in its marketing and promotion plans.

Help Cherry Sales
Wilbur Carlson, general manager of the corporation, reported this week that full participation in a national cherry sales campaign was assured as state and private organizations combined to sponsor a drive during the week of Feb. 15 to 22.

As it did during the pea promotion campaign, the authority will send out what it calls a "flying squadron" of salesmen out among distributors to boost the sales of Wisconsin cherry growers, packers and distributing organizations.

Cooperating in the campaign, among others are Karl Reynolds, Sturgeon Bay, the Fruit Growers cooperative of Door county, and Dan Gerber, Fremont, Mich., chairman of the national cherry growers organization.

"We are turning our entire field force to the promotion of cherry sales at this time. Action by the industry putting on this campaign is just what we want for all Wisconsin products, and we are glad to help as much as we can," Carlson announced.

Four Sentenced in Farm Produce Thefts

Madison—(AP)—Superior Judge Roy H. Proctor yesterday sentenced four young men who had pleaded guilty to charges of stealing produce from Dane county farms.

John C. Burlington, 24, of Beloit, was sentenced to serve a year in the state reformatory at Green Bay; Arnold Hansen, 20, and Milo Merritt, 18, both of Brooklyn, were placed on probation to the state board of control for one year each, and Willard Carville, 21, of Brooklyn, was placed on probation to T. C. Purcell, county probation officer, for six months.

Hansen is a brother of Waldo Hansen, a Green county deputy sheriff who assisted in solving the farm thefts.

Burlington, Judge Proctor said, was given a reformatory term because he had been a close companion of Charles Hall, of Brooklyn, alleged ringleader, who was sentenced at Janesville recently to a term of one to three years in state prison at Waupun.

Need New Method For Appointing Federal Judges

Should be Divorced From Presidential, Senatorial Politics

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Now that the senate of the United States has rejected the appointment of a district judge in Virginia because the two United States senators there objected to the nomination, will the senate establish the rule that the nomination of a district judge who has the approval of both senators, but who seems to have the disapproval of a large number of the people of a state, should be confirmed?

The case arises in connection with a man now chosen federal judge but who was attorney general under Huey Long and is alleged to have saved Long's henchmen from prison terms by quashing about 500 election fraud cases. As a result, he was expelled from the Louisiana Bar association, whereupon Huey Long had a law passed by his puppet legislature creating a new bar association and had the man who has now been named for district judge chosen president. The facts were set forth on Jan. 14 last in an editorial in the "Times Picayune," one of the oldest newspapers in New Orleans, and it reads as follows:

Message to President

"Message to the president: 'Your excellency: word comes to us from Washington that the department of justice has approved Attorney General Gaston Porterie of Louisiana for appointment by you to the United States district bench. That approval comes as a surprise to many in Louisiana, through the south, and over the nation who believe that Mr. Porterie is disqualified by his own official acts, for a public post requiring the fearless and impartial administration of justice. Possibly the department of justice has been misled with respect to that record. Let your excellency be misled in turn, we present briefly here the undisputed facts which in our belief prove Mr. Porterie's unfitness for promotion to the federal bench."

"In the fall election of 1932, the returns from New Orleans precincts indicated on their face gross frauds in the count. The district attorney of Orleans Parish launched a grand jury investigation thereof. Thereupon Mr. Porterie, then as now, attorney general of this state and sworn to enforce its laws, wrote the district attorney to drop the investigation. When the Parish law officer refused so to do, Attorney General Porterie superseded him, took the matter under charge of his department and continued his effort to prevent investigation of the election frauds."

Fearless Court

"Despite Mr. Porterie's open obstruction, a fearless court pressed the investigation. Count of the ballots proved the commission of gross frauds on wholesale scale. The attorney general's effort to block the official exposure of flagrant violations of the laws of the state he served as chief law officer imposed a duty on the Louisiana State Bar association. Summoned to meet serious complaints before an association committee, Mr. Porterie resigned 'under fire' and his formal expulsion followed. "That record of Mr. Porterie's own making as a public officer sworn to enforce the law is still vividly remembered by hundreds of thousands of Americans. In their belief, as in ours, Mr. Porterie stands self-disqualified for judicial service. His appointment would cause many to wonder whether you desired to reward him in spite of it—or because of it. We have summarized the facts—of which ample proof is available—in order you may not be misled or tricked, by misinformation or by misrepresentation, into making an appointment harmful to the public interest and injurious to the public faith and confidence in the judiciary."

Senate Approves

But notwithstanding this protest, the president made the appointment and the other day the same senate judiciary committee, which refused to approve a qualified man who had become involved in the "purge" controversy between the president and the Virginia senators, voted unanimously to confirm Mr. Porterie and on Wednesday of last week the senate of the United States, in a perfunctory manner and without record vote, confirmed the nomination, so that Mr. Porterie is now district judge for the state of Louisiana."

It so happens in this case that the nominee had the backing of the entire political organization of the state of Louisiana, which is the same democratic organization that Huey Long once dominated. So, in effect, the senatorial "court" rule works to the extent also that a nominee for a federal judgeship who is not obnoxious to the memory of the late Senator Huey Long gets the full approval of the United States senate. Clearly, there is need for a new method of selecting federal judges so that at can be divorced from presidential and senatorial politics, and as pointed out, in these dispatches, the way out may be a law fostered by public opinion that federal judges be selected through the courts of law and without regard to political backing.

Measure Seeks to Keep Wives From Public Positions

Fitzsimmons, Its Sponsor,
Predicts Passage
This Year

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Organized club women of the state and a bachelor Democratic politician today were polishing their armor for another offensive in what has become a long series of battles in the Wisconsin state legislature over the question of married persons in public employment.

The womenfolk have successfully balked what they consider an invasion of their equal rights in previous fights, but they fear, while its sponsor hopes, that a bill to bar married women from public jobs this year has an excellent chance of passage.

The point of issue, the brain-child of dapper, pipe-smoking Assemblyman Maurice Fitzsimmons of Fond Du Lac, says that:

"No married person shall be employed in the service of the state of any political sub-division thereof who has a husband or wife regularly employed at a salary of more than $1,500 a year plus $400 for each dependent child, or whose income, together with that of husband or wife, is $2,000 plus $400 for each dependent child."

Fitzsimmons' chief claim to a state-wide reputation is his famous "married women's bill." In same quarters it is suspected that he enjoys the excitement which his bill produces as he reintroduces it with methodical determination at each session. He appears before women's clubs and braves their ire as he explains his stand. He receives storms of protest in the form of letters each session.

But this year he reports after a canvass of his mates in both houses, "I think we will pass it."

Hearing Thursday

Fitzsimmons' calls his measure "emergency legislation." It would continue in effect until 1943. A public hearing is scheduled in the assembly Thursday of this week.

Leaders of women's organizations who have risen up in alarm against this session today had made plans to contact through the League of Women Voters, local units in every community in the state, with the declaration that "legislators will be buried under a flood of objections."

Preliminary study by the group indicates that the act would remove married persons whose incomes exceed the limitations from city and county payrolls, as well as from state government offices. Teachers apparently are included.

Representatives of the League of Women Voters and other state-wide groups have met here and decided that the "time has come to be slightly militant," and even hinted at the employment of a professional lobbyist.

One representative of a women's group was quoted as saying: "Frankly, I'm terrified I don't know what we could do unless we bring pressure to bear." She appealed to women to "write even the governor himself."

Tramplers Right, Opponents Say

Opponents of the bill call it "discriminatory" of equal rights of the sex guaranteed in their constitutional amendment.

Fitzsimmons, in return, points to the loud cries which have been made recently in various parts of the state upon revelations that husbands and wives are holding jobs at incomes out of line with average while the ranks of the unemployed remain at a peak. In some instances, he points out, both husband and wife are on the public payroll.

It is no secret that his effort has a considerable public support. It seemed today that that support is also present in the legislature, and that the measure has a better chance of passage this session than ever before.

According to a recent compilation by the state tax commission, in 1936 the separate income tax returns of married women working for the state and its subdivisions—that is, city, county and other units—numbered 2,582. The wives' reported earnings of $2,751,610, while their husbands earned that year $3,381,450.

Pegler Says Charlie Pyle Was A Goofy Promoter, but Honest

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—We saw him come and we saw him go, the gay gray optimist who quit the small-town nickelodeon business to become the most spectacular and the least hate-worthy man of his type and time, which was the American era of wonderful nonsense. Charlie Pyle, dead now in Los Angeles, after several lingering years of life on borrowed time, was goofy. Not crazy, but goofy. He had big ideas and a casual, inefficient, careless ability, and he would have been a Barnum if he had had in his makeup a little of that ingredient that you might call balance.

Tex Rickard had contempt for him because Tex was secretive and a bluffer and a bit of a wolf as well, whereas Charlie would show you his hole-card and bet 'em high as a cat's back and didn't care much whether he won or lost, just so he got action. He liked to win, naturally and no kid with a new red wagon ever was happier than Charlie when he found himself pocket-rich for the short spell, and gave a magnificent dinner to the beauty and chivalry of the ringside and Wall street aboard the steamship Paris at her pier in New York. For a climax, Vincent Richards, then one of the greatest professional amateurs of the tennis business, came down the curving stair with his wife, Gushee, on his arm, signifying that he had turned frankly pro and would tour the country with Charlie's troupe.

Gushee, herself, is a somebody, the girl who, on leaving the home of a condescending climber who was trying to do the Indian rope trick in New York society, turned to her hostess and with lovely sarcasm said: "Well, Goodbye, you said, 'don't think it ain't been charming.'"

They dined off the gold service that night aboard the Paris, and Charlie wrung the necks of many bottles of imprisoned laughter. He said, afterward, that as he sat there in center of the head table, with his dress shirt creaking and the little bubbles dancing out of his glass, he could not keep his thoughts out of Pixley and Ehler's bearnery on Van Buren street, Chicago, where he had lived on 15-cent meals one cold winter not long before.

Conquered Prejudice
Against Professionalism

"I would look at that phrasit and think of those beans and brown bread at Pixley's," Charlie said, "and look at that gold stuff and think of Pixley's tin forks and look at the champagne glasses and think of Pixley's java mugs, without handles and as big as a sloop-jar and I would say to myself, 'Pyle, this ain't you.'"

Everybody knows that Charlie loathed Red Grange at the University of Illinois in the fall of 1926, persuading him not to wait for his degree next spring, and took him on the road for a professional football career that earned them half a million, all told. And everybody knows that he smashed the amateur monopoly of tennis receipts with a troupe that included not only Richards but Suzanne Lenglen and Mary Brown. But it has been overlooked that Charlie conquered an almost religious prejudice in the public mind against professionalism in both sports. You would have thought he had seduced some fair virgin, so fierce was the wrath over his enticement of Red Grange, a penniless student, away from his life of coolie wages and profitless education at Champaign, to cash in on his reputation. That Grange did not hang onto his money is another story, but after Red had lost most of it going along with Pyle in other risky promotions, he still gave Pyle a good report—"Pyle was goofy, yes, but he was honest."

Star Gridlers Now
Expect To Turn Pro

Nowadays the star football player naturally expects to turn pro for a few years and nobody minds, but that was a time when Bo McMillan, another poor college star, was moved to arise at the coaches' meeting in New York to plead guilty, as though to an offense against society, admitting that he had played pro after college, explaining that he had done it to pay his college debts, and promising to err no more.

Tennis, too, although even more hypocritical and dishonest than college football, was regarded as a lovely flower of American culture which would wither and die at the first touch of honest professionalism. Others have received the profits of Charlie's nerve and originality for he went broke in football, along with Red, and was elbowed out of professional tennis, too.

He was a two-headed calf man at heart. He was happiest in later years with the monstrosities of his freak show, the mule-faced woman from Texas who would munch wisps of hay on her high pitch at the Chicago fair, and the little coal miner who has ossified but worried about his poor brother who didn't ossify and being, now, too old to dig coal, was dependant on the ossified man's earnings. They were his kind.

May Re-Enact Law Abolishing Tax on New Improvements

Move Underway to Revive Measure Which Has Expired

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—A movement is underway in the state legislature, members reported today, to re-enact the law which expired last year and which for a short period exempted the value of new improvements on real estate property from taxation. At the same time the state tax of show-folks and he seemed to enjoy and marvel at them as much as the customers who paid money to gaze and, sometimes to faint in horror at such foul pranks of nature on blameless fellow creatures.

We always end such stories with the prayer "Green be the sod above him," and this is no case in which to break the tradition.

commission reported today that the full values of new improvements placed upon the assessment rolls on May 1 of last year due to the expiration of the exemption statute totaled more than $120,000,000 for the state, of which slightly more than 60 per cent was residential property.

Fifteen per cent was represented in mercantile property, 13 per cent in manufacturing, and about nine per cent in agricultural property.

The full values of new improvements thus placed on the assessment rolls in the counties of the Appleton area, and that part of the value represented by improvements on residential property are shown in the following table released today by the tax commission:

| County | Residential | Total |
|-----------|-------------|-------------|
| Brown | $2,966,000 | $4,796,800 |
| Outagamie | 2,730,000 | 3,655,100 |
| Calumet | 232,600 | 496,974 |
| Manitowoc | 1,281,970 | 2,008,005 |
| Shawano | 321,150 | 674,550 |
| Waupaca | 408,000 | 599,230 |
| Winnebago | 2,360,800 | 5,631,200 |

School Boards to Get New Contract Blanks

Contract blanks for teachers for the next term are being sent to the rural school boards in Outagamie county by Henry J. Van Straten, county superintendent of schools. Each board has the right to fix salaries of the teachers, subject to the minimum requirements of the law, the superintendent points out. The minimum salary is $85 under the state law. The boards may make contracts only with legally qualified teachers.

Under the teacher tenure law, one who has taught in any one school or school system for a period of five years must be given a written cause for dismissal by the board. The teacher also has an opportunity to appear in defense of the charges at a public hearing.

LET'S LOOK IN OUR OWN BACK YARD

Still must I hear!
Shall hoarse-voiced Hitler bawl
His rough, gruff German in a tavern hall
And I keep quiet,
I, Franklin Delano Roosevelt!
Prepare for speech,
I'll talk out right or wrong,
Despots shall be my theme,
Saving Democracy my song.

There is one very sound phase of the President's policy in regard to our military affairs which have suddenly become matters of great concern. Mr. Roosevelt stands for adequate national defense. Well and good.

But when the President lightly tosses American military secrets, that may be of the utmost value, to another country he is not only violating the canons of neutrality but ripping good judgment all to pieces.

Mr. Roosevelt says he has the right to do this under the constitution because that instrument makes him "commander-in-chief of the army and navy." Since when did any such commander construe his authority as extending to the right to give away valuable military secrets in peace time to a nation who is under no obligations to protect us, as we are under no obligations to protect it? We fear that when Mr. Roosevelt gets through construing the constitution it will be a wild looking instrument.

Commanders of armies have the duty to put their armies into shape, to keep them in shape, and in time of war to direct their operations.

But if we assume that Mr. Roosevelt as commander of the army is acting within his jurisdiction the people must next pass upon the advisability of his conduct and whether or not the trans-Atlantic brawl in which he is indulging with Italy and Germany is the sort of operation that is most conducive to the prosperity and well-being of the American people.

We are all interested deeply in the prestige of America. Since the World War no nation has begun to approach in power and strength this country of ours as it stands in the eyes of the world.

It cannot afford to ring bluffs. The best that can be said for Mr. Roosevelt is that he is trying to bluff Hitler and Mussolini out and thus help the democracies of Europe and, incidentally, Mr. Browder's Russia.

The popular reaction to the President's conduct to date is, we believe, quite unfavorable and does not result because America has any use for totalitarian states, because it has not, nor is it affected by the popularity of Britain and France among us, which is considerable.

The public, frankly, is afraid of Mr. Roosevelt. The people are afraid of his judgment. They fear the unsteadiness and impetuous nature of his conduct. Only a year ago last October in Chicago our President spoke with that fervent fervor with which we all became so familiar during Mr. Wilson's regime, and declared that he was prepared to put "a quarantine" upon the tyrants. Cooler heads must have explained to the President that such a quarantine, that is economic sanctions, if laid upon a first-class power is practically the equivalent of a declaration of war. And so America came out of that visionary discussion with a black eye and a president who swallowed his tongue, but not for long.

If the President could only view how incongruous his attitude must appear with others, or if he had someone around him to quit feeding him honey and put some salt on his bread, he might better appreciate the oddity of his effort to save European peoples when he has failed to save the ten millions we still have unemployed.

And if there was ever anything funnier than a President trying to protect the property of Europeans when he failed to protect the property of his own citizens down in Mexico it, at least, has not been brought to our attention.

Is it little wonder that so many in the nation feel that the President is pointing a throbbing finger at others to get the people's eyes off their own sores and the wretched flop which Mr. Roosevelt has made, to date, of advancing the economic condition of the nation?

HE NEEDN'T RETURN CALL

The protocol experts of the state department are the boys who have to figure out who goes in to dinner ahead of whom, and similar tough problems. But once in a while, the protocol experts find relief in a highly question of international etiquette. They have just arrived at an answer to such a question; and it is a much more interesting problem than the protocol boys usually are called on to work out. Indeed, it is a precedent-setter.

The question is this: Does courtesy require President Roosevelt to return the visit which King George VI and Queen Elizabeth of England are going to make in June? The protocol experts' answer is No. Here is why: 1—The visit is not being made directly to the United States, but is a sort of by-visit to the major one which the royal couple is making to Canada; 2—A king and queen have all the years of their reign to make an official visit, whereas a President has only a limited term; 3—the President combines in his position the functions of a king and a prime minister, and the prime ministerial functions necessarily keep him at his post.

The experts add that there is nothing to prevent Mr. Roosevelt from visiting the king and queen in England after he returns to private life. As gentlemen of diplomatic training, of course, they give no hint as to when they expect that to come to pass.

CHEER UP!

Eighty is no time for pessimism. That Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, a confirmed optimist, is depressed by the events of the European and Asiatic scenes is natural enough in a pacifist or anybody else.

But she was long habituated to over-cast skies in the dark days before woman suffrage became a constitutional fact in the United States. Never doubting, she lived to see the day when her sex, as such, attained equal rights with enfranchised slaves. Why is she not entitled to hope that the ruthlessness of new governmental ideologies—the blessed thing about them is that they cannot today be discerned as continuing dynasties—will come to a futile and repudiated end?

We wish this lady a new dawn of optimism long before her next birthday. She has fought, and largely helped to win, the good fight. By a seasoned physician of the spirit two harmless sedatives might be prescribed for her present mood. Of these the first would be a rereading of the "De Senectute" of old Cicero, who knew a thing or two about the consolation of the years. The other would be a visit to Washington and a lower corridor of the Capitol.

There she could view again, with tender smile for the compliment intended and an irresistible chuckle for its artistic concept, the sculptured bust of herself, along with those of the late Susan B. Anthony and a Revolutionary "women's righter" whose name we forget, rising serenely from the marble rock of prejudice.

EMPLOYMENT GAINS

That manufacturing jobs increased, contrary to the usual trend; that wholesale trades showed a contra-seasonal gain also; that private building construction reported the smallest curtailment in workers for the period in the last seven years—these are the salient features of the Department of Labor's employment report for December. As a result, in conjunction with "an unusually large expansion in retail trade personnel," 200,000 workers were added to payrolls during the month. And while factory employment was 3.4 points under December a year ago, it was above any other month of 1938 and payrolls were 2.9 per cent higher than the previous December.

This situation as to employment is distinctly encouraging, for, according to the Federal Reserve Board's monthly report, general industrial production was at about the level reached in November. One significant fact about the labor figures is that since last July 1,200,000 workers have found re-employment. If only a comparatively small proportion of these were on work relief, still the rising curve of more private jobs should have been reflected by a descending curve in WPA enrollment. Yet up to November WPA continued to rise.

OUR FUTURE HOMES

In the unrelenting march of civilization (current phase) streamlined and air-conditioned occur together so frequently that we are beginning to think of them as inseparable, like the Gold Dust Twins. Now there is a notable exception in the home of the future: it will be air-conditioned, but not streamlined.

It seems the architectural forecasts are all the other way. The home of the future will be shaped like a box, at least until we come to the home of the ultra-future, which may be shaped like a farmer's silo. The dominant house models as yet are of the beehive type, cubical and angular. The old-fashioned things around our homes happen to be the streamlined things—cornices and caves and dormers and other flowing lines. They will disappear.

Probably on the inside of this simple geometrical home the furniture and utensils still will flow. There must be a good many old-fashioned people who resent the stuff lines and sharp corners of modernist furniture.

Opinions of Others

SOLVED?
A good many people have given much thought to the problem of how to make productive use of our increasing leisure time. Maybe Harold Ryder, of Waikato, New Zealand, has found a solution.
Mr. Ryder, facing a lousy spell in a hospital, took his egg into bed with him and, after "setting" for three weeks, hatched out a White Leghorn chick.—New York World-Telegram.

DALE HARRISON'S
In Old New York

New York—I leave it to you to figure out if the girl actually killed herself. None of us knows for sure. The papers the following day carried no word of it. The assumption is that she changed her mind. If she did, let her thank God and Roy Saunders, the radio announcer.

It happened the other night about 2:30 a.m. It was drama that burst into our living rooms, rousing us from the half-sleep into which we had fallen as we sat alone reading.

The radio was tuned softly into one of those all night programs—the ones on which they play phonograph records and fill telephone and telegraph requests from that considerable number of stay-up-late listeners.

You know the kind. The announcer is a wit and a wag. He reads requests, makes jolly comments, and plays the records.
"Nellie Green and friends, having a party at her home in the Bronx, request 'Jeepers Creepers.' All right, Nellie, here she comes. . . . The boys in Tony's Tavern want 'Old Man Mose.' He's dead, boys, but I'll dig him up for you. . . . Birthday greetings from Fireman Grady of Firehouse 10, who wears 'The Girl on the Flying Trapeze.' Think she'll fall for you, Fireman? Get it—'I'll fall for you!' That sort of chatter.

A jazzy record had just finished, Saunders' voice was heard once more. This time there was a strange sombreness to his words.

"We have just received a telephone request to play a number," he said. His voice shook unaccountably. "It was a woman who phoned. She said she was alone in her room. She said she was about to go to sleep—forever. I've turned on the gas, she said, 'and I want to make one last request. While the gas is on, and while I am slowly going to sleep, please play for me 'My Own.' To its melody I shall go to sleep."

Saunders paused. It was not hard to picture him, standing distraught before his microphone, wiping the perspiration of deep emotion from his forehead.

"Maybe it's just a gag," he continued. "I don't know. The woman would not tell us who she was or where she was."

"The Federal Communications Commission has a rule forbidding personal appeals over the air. Let me violate that rule this once. Let me appeal directly to her who has made the request for 'My Own.'"

"Dear Friend, we will play your request for you. In just a moment it will start. But first—TURN OFF THAT GAS! Before you do this terrible thing think well! Life is the most precious thing in the world. Don't sell it cheaply. Keep it! Treasure it!"

He paused again. Then—
"And now, for the Lady Alone, we play—'My Own.'"

The music began. I sat, tense and cold, staring at my radio. Many thousands of others must have done the same. In the shadows of the room imagination conjured a picture of drama—Drama to the incidental music of a torch song.

At the radio station the switchboard was clogged with calls—calls from hundreds of people offering all sorts of help if only the woman would not kill herself. Even the United States Coast Guard offered aid.

Somewhere in a room in New York "My Own" poured from a loudspeaker into a room fast filling with gas and the song of the saxophones was a macabre obbligato to the hiss of the jets on a range.

The record ended. The announcer's voice, still unsteady, went on with the program—"Sing for Your Supper," "Midnight on the Trail," and "This Can Be Love."

At exactly 3:10 a.m. he broke into the program and said:

"We have just had a phone call from the woman who requested us to play 'My Own.' Again she would not give us her name or address, nor have we been able to trace the call. I wish I could tell you that she had abandoned her intention to kill herself, but I can't, for she did not say. She spoke only two words. Interpret them as you will."
The words were "Thank You."

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO
Tuesday, Feb. 5, 1929

Mrs. John Schulz, 1227 S. Pierce avenue, rescued Martin Haley, 65, from the Fox river after he broke through the ice while he was shoveling snow on the river. Mr. Haley was in the water about a half hour before his cries attracted his rescuer.

Attorney A. S. Bradford was reelected president of the Outagamie Fish and Game association, and Dr. Max Goeres was elected secretary at the annual meeting the previous evening. C. F. Culler of the bureau of fisheries was the chief speaker.

Gilbert Minton, Weyauwega, lost a valuable team of horses when they broke through the ice of the Wolf river near Gills landing.

John Notebaart of St. Paul, was named printing instructor at the vocational school.

Tuesday, Feb. 10, 1914

The board of health issued an order that morning that all children in public and parochial schools, and all students in Lawrence college, must be vaccinated or produce evidence of recent vaccination. This step was taken to prevent spread of the small pox epidemic then raging in the city.

A fire in the Wausau Paper Mills Co. plant at Brookview caused damage estimated at $150,000. Insurance covered the loss, it was said.

Governor McGovern signed the commission which elevated Hugh E. Pomeroy to the rank of major in the Wisconsin National guard. Lieutenant George Merkl was named captain of Co. G to succeed Major Pomeroy, and Luther G. Graef was named first lieutenant of the company.

Arrangements were being completed to hold the district meeting of Odd Fellows here this week.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

SILVER IN HER HAIR

She sprinkles silver in her hair
To match her silver party gown.
And then goes drifting gently down
The curving stair.

I look up from my book to see
This vision that I love so well.
And after she goes out, her spell
Lingers with me.

And then I drop a foolish tear
For all the silver Time will shed
Upon her darling flaxen head,
And I no longer have her here.

A Bystander
In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—One need only see the army on parade about a capital cocktail party to chase away the blues about how women have stolen all the color in dress and driven the men to somber black and white.

Grover

The New York writer, Lucius Beebe, complains forlornly that scarcely a man lives today, except himself, who dares wear the colors of his choice. He says men and slaves who, for fear of the gallantry of their women, can't escape from solemn black to powder blues, pinks, or a shirt with a dash of green.

Among the common men, Beebe is like the fox who lost his tail; few others will join him.

Perhaps it is hardly fair to ring in foreigners, although you should see some of the broad-ribbon wearers strutting about at White House receptions. The French military attaches with their red pants and sky blue tunics splashed with gold are especially colorful.

Look Out, Rainbow

But our own army men make even Beebe in his brightest mosaics seem a retiring flower—as far as color is concerned. There isn't a woman on the reservation who can touch Uncle Sam's army officers in their new uniforms.

Dark blue prevails but the flair is in the trimmings. Take a captain of artillery, for instance. His blue cap has a broad red band around it. The red is edged with gold. His dark blue full dress coat has "tails," and the trousers are a lighter shade for contrast.

Down each trouser leg is a broad band of red braid, like an elevator operator wears—but no elevator operator to our knowledge pays $75 to $150 for his pants. The decoration on the tailed coat is even fancier. About the cuff of the sleeve is a broad band of gold, then one of red, and another of gold. Interlocking loops of gold run half way to the elbow.

The front of the tailed coat also is modeled after the regular formal wear, but gold buttons range up either side and gold buttons fasten the white vest. And, beauty of beauties, the lapels are red, not dull red either, but bright, bright like the sunburst.

On the shoulders is more gold, twisted quoits that lay the buyer back $25 to $60, depending upon the weight.

Infantry does almost as well, except that the infantry uniform lacks the reds and has to be satisfied with contrasting blues, touched up with white and gold.

Behold—The Cavalry

But the cavalry! Ah. . . . Where the "artilleryman sports red, the cavalryman trims his uniform with yellow—yellow lapels, yellow braid down the trouser legs, and yellow cap band.

But, we save the best for last! That is the cape for all these uniforms. It is a swishy affair that hangs Napoleon fashion, from the shoulders to the knees. It is dark blue, with black velvet collar and a twist of black braid as a fastening. And now for the color. The cape is lined with the "color of the service," red for artillery, yellow for cavalry, white or blue for infantry, and a variety of other colors for ordnance, medical and what not. And the cape is built to flare, and show the lining.

The mystery about it all is how a fledgling lieutenant with an income of $1,800 or so a year, can lay out the $500 to $1,000 necessary to fit himself with dress outfits, not to mention his ordinary uniforms, which can't be bought at the 15 cent store.

16-Pound Cat Collects
Live Rabbits as Hobby
Fisher's Island, N. Y.—"Bring-Em-Back Alive" Hibiscus, a giant cat owned by Henry L. Ferguson, has captured 150 cottontail rabbits—alive.

He carried them in his mouth uninjured to his owner, Ferguson said the cat, which weighs more than 16 pounds, began hunting cottontails after its comrade, a pet rabbit owned by the Fergusons, died some time ago.

"It may be that he is trying to replace the pet rabbit," Ferguson said. "He kills rats, but never hurts a rabbit."

DON'T WE SMELL SOMETHING BURNING?

Under the
CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—The plight of those Progressives, most of them young people, who are anxious to show Phil

LaFollette that the party can stand on its own feet and who want to start organization work immediately with the view of grooming a candidate for 1940 is interesting to watch.

Interesting too is the general acceptance of the idea that LaFollette is out of consideration.

That the party is considerably muddled up is shown by the heterogeneity of suggestions for candidates and in other ways. For example, the Progressive legislature caucus has not yet decided who is the party's floorleader in the upper house.

Thus far this correspondent has heard the following suggestions for governor on the Progressive ballot next time, and realize that some of them are what Progressives call "trial balloons": Tom Amle, Circuit Judge A. C. Reis of Dane county, Kenneth Honan, president of the Farmers-Equity Union, Herbert J. Steffes, Milwaukee county district attorney, practically all of the defeated Progressive congressmen, from Sauthoff through Bollau, William T. Evjue, State Senator Phil Nelson, and Theodore Dammann.

This column has also run across a suggestion naming Senator Mike Kresky of Green Bay, but Kresky's senate seat next time, and would prefer not to be forced to run against him.

Encore
This week the capital will witness the beginning of another dreary series of hearings on the state government's biennial budget. After many weeks, Julius Heil wound up his hearings late in December. Now it is the joint finance committee's turn to wade through the demands of state departments and institutions for large chunks of the taxpayers' dollar.

Every afternoon of legislative days for the next three or four weeks, probably, the score or so of leading legislators who pulled strings to win places on the house finance committee will sit in a jam-packed, smoky room high up in the capitol to decide whether Heil's budget treats the state budgetary right.

Jointly responsible for the conduct of the hearings, and for the submission of the budget bill to the legislature itself some weeks from now are Senator Otto Mueller of Wausau and Assemblyman Bradley M. McIntyre, typical pair of Republicans who are leading in the present membership of the senate and assembly.

While all members get the same pay, the two in hours spent and in the size of their jobs will work considerably harder for their big blue salary checks than their less ambitious colleagues.

Senator Harry Bolens, the Democratic party's patriarch, was reciting the glorious history of the Wisconsin Democratic party the other day, but it seemed to the galleries that he was handicapped by lack of material. Back in the Granger days, he recalled, the party elected Taylor governor. About three and a half decades later it came through with Peck. In the next century, 40 years later, it produced Schmiedeman.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

BETTER FAT THAN WRINKLES
Leaving the arteries out of it for the nonce, a man's old when he stops looking and a woman is as old as she feels.

When a doctor holds the feminine patient's hand and gazes into her eyes and marks strokes her cheek or chucks her under the chin the presumption must be that he is gauging the lady's anatomical or physiological age, for that is a better guide in diagnosis, prognosis and treatment than the conventional lie about her chronological age. Of course he looks into her eyes for signs of the arcus senilis, or mayhap the arcus juvenilis, and he holds her hand and strokes her cheek and chucks her under the chin in order to determine the nutritional condition of her skin. Arteriosclerosis, hardening of the arteries, which is universally recognized as a characteristic of senescence, is a progressive nutritional derangement or deficiency, and the skilled physician can detect the degeneration in its incipency long before the patient herself or even her closest acquaintances become aware of it.

I wouldn't mention such a bit of bad news at all were it not for the cheering assurance I can conscientiously give the individual, man or woman, with incipient arteriosclerosis, namely, that if one with the early signs of this progressive nutritional derangement has the intelligence and the character to accept, adopt and follow consistently or reasonably a corrective regimen of living, as given here in a series of articles collected in the booklet "7 Keys to Vite"—there is always a fair chance to stay the progress of the degeneration and in some cases to reverse the process and bring about regeneration, actual physical or physiological rejuvenation.

Mindful of the meaninglessness of technical terms unless they are defined, I must explain that the arcus senilis is an opaque whitish ring or part of a ring in the margin or near the margin of the cornea or clear window of the eye in front of the iris. The color ring is due to either deposit of fatty granules there (fatty infiltration) or conversion of substance of normal tissue cells into fat (fatty degeneration). Arcus juvenile is crescent of gray pigment, the normal coloring matter of the iris, sometimes seen near the margin of the cornea in a young person.

Pathologists formerly attempted to distinguish fatty infiltration from fatty degeneration, whether in the heart, other muscular organs or the body generally. Their confusion was probably due to the common occurrence of overweight or obesity for ten years or more preceding the avowed organic disease. But with increasing knowledge of nutrition it becomes more and more evident that the essential process is one of degeneration from the beginning, not mere deposit of fat in or about the muscle or the other tissue, but conversion of the protoplasm, the substance of the cells of the tissue into fat.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Crack Inflamed Lip
Can you tell me what to do for an obstinate soreness and swelling of the lip, with cracks at the corners that do not heal? I have had it for nearly a year and no general health seems to be showing the effect. (Mrs. C. R.)

Answer—The cause of an obstinate chronic inflammation of the lip with such cracks as you describe is insufficient intake of riboflavin, otherwise known as vitamin G, or vitamin B2. Up your intake of this factor of the vitamin B complex by eating every day three or four ounces of wheat germ—which may be taken mixed half and half with any cereal you like, or with fruit or fruit juice, or incorporated in place of one-half the flour in any recipe.

Upholstery Wanted
The boy friend who provides fourteen meals a week for me says that he'd be willing to take me out to dine and dance twice a week or so if I only had more upholstery. I am healthy enough. I guess, but have been hovering around 110 pounds for three or four years, and I am 5 feet three inches tall and 30 years old. (Mrs. J. C. W.)

Answer—You should weigh 125 pounds. Send three-cent stamped envelope bearing your address, and ask for instructions for gaining weight. Notify boy friend schedule changes as of this date to 21 meals a week.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. It's Odd
But It's Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
San Bernardino, Calif.—(3)—

Ninety days may be a bad interval to have between birthdays of husband and wife.

This idea comes from a chart of 1,100 couples whose divorces came to Major John A. Hadaller, attorney here, or to his friends. The chart showed most of the divorces bunched under four groups of birthdays, when these dates were arranged according to the interval separating them. The longest possible interval is a little more than 180 days, or half a year. For these 1,100 couples four intervals were bad, namely, 45 days, 90, 135 and 180, and of these 90 was much the worst. Four other intervals were good, so favorable in fact that they contained barely over 100 of all the divorces. The favorable intervals were 30, 60, 120 and 150 days.

The "influence" of these good or bad date peaks extended for a few days on each side.

The 90 day peak not only exceeded all others in number, but study of the records of divorce seekers in that group showed more intensity of conflict and of emotion than in any of the other high divorce frequency peaks.

The 90 day group, included five days on each side, showed a history of quarreling soon after marriage and in some cases before marriage. The persons in this group, unlike any of the other combinations, refused to credit the other partner with any virtues whatever.

New Methods in Prospect for Business With Latin-America

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—Watch for a government-sponsored Latin American trade activity shortly, a fresh attempt under the hand of an experienced businessman to meet the new German methods with something more than a normal orthodox individual trading.

Immediately, the problem posed to the United States by Hitler is not a military threat at all but a trade threat. That threat would grow if the peace deal which Chamberlain is now trying to bring off with Hitler should materialize, thereby enabling Germany to switch some of her industrial effort from armament to export production.

In fact that may prove to be the new form of World war. It may be that the huge armies will never fight a general war, although regional fighting is likely to continue. Actually we may be in the midst of the second World-war now—one which omits the gun firing and proceeds more directly into attainment of its real economic objectives. The force is there, but instead of taking time out to fight, a count of guns, men and planes is made and that phase of the war is omitted. Anyway it's an idea.

Germany and other authoritarian countries are over the top in the western hemisphere attacking commercially, and all indications point to a stepping up of the attack rapidly. In the challenge to our markets in the western hemisphere Germany has scrapped the old-fashioned method of private individual trading, which is the basis of the Hull reciprocal program. Our idea is the traditional one. An American harmonica maker gathers up his supply, goes down to Rio, Buenos Aires or Lima and looks for customers. He makes his deals just as he would at home. But with the authoritarian countries, foreign trade is not an individual enterprise but a government activity, controlled, managed, operated to meet specific national needs. What is bought and sold depends, not upon what private businessmen happen to want to sell or buy but what the government, from the viewpoint of its whole national economy, wants to buy and sell. Those governments will go to any length, subsidizing, bartering, using squeeze plays of all sorts up to and including boycott threats, or any other methods that seem effective.

No abandonment of Secretary Hull's reciprocal-trade program is involved but some in the government believe this situation has to be met in new ways, with more direct government help. We cannot leave our American businessman at the mercy of this new competition single-handed.

The administration has a businessman on the job, conferring with governments officials and preparing a plan of operation. He probably will be brought into the government in a key position, perhaps under Secretary of Commerce Hopkins, so that he may develop the program which he is now preparing in consultation with the RFC, the export-import bank and other government agencies. He has been consulting government eco-

Neenah Rockets Play Shawano in Title Cage Game

Win Would Give Local Five Share of Championship

Neenah — The spotlight of the Northwestern Wisconsin conference will be focused at Neenah Friday night when the league-leading Shawano Indians, defending champions, clash with the Neenah Red Rockets in a cage game which will decide the conference championship.

A victory will clinch the title for the Indians, but if the Rockets win, they practically will have a share of the crown to their credit.

Odds for the outcome of the crucial contest will be well balanced. Although Shawano scored a 31 to 21 triumph over the Rockets in the first game this season, the Indians have been paring their victory count close in fact, they came out of the New London game with only a 2-point victory. Menasha also gave the Indians a real scare.

Neenah, on the other hand, has been hitting its stride since the Shawano game, and the Rockets have been winning by lopsided scores.

Expect Big Crowd

If pre-game choices were to be selected, however, Shawano would deserve the nod, regardless of how slight. The game is being highly touted and it probably will draw the largest crowd of the season.

The high scoring Bill Reed, guard, will be the Rockets' chief concern, but Coach Ole Jorgensen, who probably will assign the lanky Harlan Hesselman, junior guard, to cover the conference's leading scorer, will be taking no chances on letting Gotschall, forward, also a good point-getter, in the open. Schweers, center, also has shown considerable improvement lately, and will have to be watched closely.

The Indians also will have a tough assignment in covering Neenah's two top scorers, Captain Dan Schmidt, center, and Hesselman, especially while Coach Jorgensen has a forward like Hackstock feeding the ball to them. Hackstock, incidentally, is one of the most dangerous players Neenah's opponents have to face. He has an uncanny ability of passing the ball to his mates at the precise time for a good shot. Schmidt should successfully bottle up Schmidt and Hesselman, which isn't plausible, Karren and Buxton Kettering or Lea Peterson are pretty good at connecting with the hoop.

Noticeable in the last few games is Shawano's weakening defense, and although Coach Jorgensen hasn't issued any report on the local's offensive practice for this week, it is likely that Neenah will be taking advantage of this weakness Friday night.

Neenah and Schmidt each collected 12 points against West De Pere Friday night when Neenah copped, 28 to 18, so the former continues to lead his mates in scoring, having counted 94 points. Schmidt is second with 88 points, and Warren Kettering is third with 52. Peterson has made 35, while Hackstock has scored 19.

Menasha — The Menasha common council will hold a regular session at 7:30 tonight at the city hall with a full schedule of business to be acted upon. A committee of the whole meeting was held Monday night at the city office to audit bills which have been presented for payment tonight.

A joint meeting of the council with the Menasha members of the relief commission already has been held and a council committee has continued the investigation.

Bids have been secured from local dealers.

Extra seats have been installed in the council chambers to accommodate the overflow crowd expected for the meeting tonight.

Buerki Dubs Rats Public Enemy No. 1 At Club Luncheon

Rodents Cause Loss of $480,000,000 Annually, He Says

Neenah — Dubbing rats "public enemy No. 1," G. A. Buerki of the West Disinfecting company told members of the Neenah club in a talk at a noon luncheon Monday at the club rooms that the United States annually loses $480,000,000 through destruction by rats.

He added, "Besides actual destruction, diseases and plagues spread by rats cost much more."

It has been determined that there are about two rats for every human being in the United States, and each rat requires at least $2 a year. Although they are the oldest kind of pests, they are still the worst modern pest, and they haven't been eliminated because man has been too indifferent, lazy and ignorant. He pointed out that scientists are realizing the expense each year caused by rats, and new methods for their extermination are being made. The problem of securing methods of extermination is to find some type of poison which will be effective on rats but won't hurt people and other small animals. The red quill bulb, found only in southern Europe, contains properties for raticide and still won't be dangerous to other small animals and humans.

Moths, Buerki said, are even more destructive than rats, but there is no means of knowing the amount of damage done each year. The most effective method, he said, and one which is becoming common, is to open houses to zero temperature for 48 hours, or if the heating plant will permit, increase the temperature to 130 degrees. This will achieve results.

Buerki also discussed the damage done by cockroaches.

Jury Finds Three Parties Negligent In Auto Accident

Damage Suit Brought by Menasha Man Against Utility Corporation

Menasha — All three parties were found negligent by a circuit court jury at Green Bay last week in a civil suit brought by Clarence Schommer and Harold Kuester of Menasha against the Wisconsin Public Service corporation. The plaintiffs asked damages as the result of an accident on Nicolet road near Green Bay when the car driven by Schommer, with Kuester as a passenger, struck a pole of the defendant company near the Y. W. C. A. camp. The plaintiffs claimed that the pole was too near the road.

The jury found Schommer 65 per cent responsible for the accident because of his handling of the car; the electric company 25 per cent negligent because the pole was not properly placed and Kuester 10 per cent negligent because he failed to keep a proper lookout or to protect the speed at which the car was being driven.

Kuester's damages were set at $1,184 money loss, $1,000 loss of earnings and $500 pain and suffering. The damage actually paid will be decreased by 10 per cent because of Kuester's own negligence.

SEC Head Would Make Probe of Insurance Firms

Says 'Spectacular' Growth Since 1906 Justifies Inquiry

Washington — (U) — Chairman William O. Douglas of the securities commission told the temporary national economic committee Monday that the "spectacular" growth of insurance companies since 1906 alone justified an inquiry into their economic influence.

Douglas, who was the first witness called by the monopoly committee in its investigation into insurance company investments, said insurance firms had cooperated with the SEC. He emphasized that he was in no way questioning adequacy of the companies' reserves.

"No policy-holder need have any concern," said Douglas, "that any fact brought out in this inquiry will in any way jeopardize the protection which he counts upon through his insurance policy."

Lauds Committee

The witness paid warm tribute to the work of the so-called Armstrong committee, a joint New York state legislative committee which investigated life insurance companies there in 1905. The work of the committee, which employed Charles Evans Hughes, now chief justice of the United States, as counsel, has long been recognized.

Douglas said, "as an outstanding contribution to an understanding of the problems of finance."

But since 1905, he added, "there has been a tremendous and spectacular growth of insurance."

"Three individual companies in 1906 each commanded approximately one-half billion dollars in assets."

The Armstrong committee recommended that they should not be permitted to go beyond one-half billion in size. Yet today, each of these three companies commands well over a billion dollars in assets.

The monopoly committee's present task, he added, is to survey the economic power "inherent in the vast investment funds controlled by insurance companies and to study the impact of that power upon our national economy."

Movie Land Its People and Products

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood — The most amazing phenomenon in Hollywood is the brutal suddenness with which, a much-talked-about personality can plunge into near-oblivion. Witness the case of Katharine Hepburn.

There have been few screen stars who commanded more attention, for Katharine has as much "color" as a desert sunset. She has a knack of making trivialities sensational, of being just enough to be talked about. And talked about she was—plenty—for the better part of seven years.

It's only been a few months ago that she severed her studio contract—less than a year since she made her last picture. But in that short time she's dropped out of the limelight. Now and then, someone asks, "What's become of Katharine Hepburn?" That someone is the man with the long memory—the rest of Hollywood seems to have forgotten her too completely to bother asking questions.

Mind you, I'm not intimating that Katharine Hepburn is necessarily "through" in pictures. She's a fine actress. I have no doubt that one of these days she will return to the screen and, with a single smash hit, regain much of the ground that she has lost through idleness. I'm simply pointing out the astonishing forgetfulness of Hollywood. "Out of sight, out of mind" is a truism here—and so big a threat to every career that I can't understand why any star dares risk a year's absence from the screen. In Hollywood the greatest star is merely the most obscure has-been—minus the single factor of Time.

Odd-formation: The dress shirts worn by movie actors are usually light blue or yellow, rather than white, which is apt to cause halation. In spite of those svelte bulges Mae West affects for her Gay Nineties roles, she weighs only 119 pounds. The most-photographed person on any movie troupe is not the star but the assistant cameraman. The first ten feet of each scene is a close-up of him holding the number board used to identify the "take" for cutting. Barbara Stanwyck, always a light eater, never lunches at all on work days. Doubt if you could get him to talk about it, but Tough-guy Jimmy Cagney made his first stage hit as a female impersonator.

Two of Elissa Landi's published novels were written on the set between scenes. Most movie dogs are trained to obey gestures, not spoken commands—a concession to the microphone. Has anyone ever commented on the amazing likeness between Greta Garbo and her brother, Sven Gustafson?—they look more alike than many a pair of identical twins. Despite all the gags about Clark Gable's ears, the most important job undertaken by Hollywood beauty doctors when he signed his first screen contract was the overhaul of his teeth, which were unusually crooked.

Gail Patrick, famous as our "best dressed" lady, has an incongruous hobby—she's a crack pistol shot. Paul Muni's elder brother plays a violin in the Warner Brothers orchestra. Before signing any screen contract, George Arliss insisted on the insertion of a special clause barring work under any circumstances, on Sunday. John Garfield studied to be a ballet dancer.

If Pat O'Brien wrote a less efficient "front" this little story might not strike me as amusing, but some six months ago, having decided that he needed a larger house for his growing family, Patrick set out to buy a new property whereon to build—and for six months, he's been spending all of his spare time examining every vacant site within fifteen miles of his old abode. Only a few days ago, he bought a lot—the one next door.

To give you a rough idea of the impermanent nature of fame in Filmville: The other day, T. C. Wright, one of the front office cubs at Warner Brothers, sent a certain Jesse Hibbs to the set where Russ Saunders was working as assistant director. And with him, he sent this note: "The bearer of this letter Mr. Jesse Hibbs, former ace football player, has been sent down to your set to give you technical advice so that you will be sure the scenes with kids playing football will be done correctly. Please show Mr. Hibbs every courtesy. Russ did more than that—he greeted Jesse like a long-lost brother. Hibbs won his All-American rating by opening the holes through which Saunders plunged to All-American recognition—and his first job with the studio, just eight years ago. Today the same studio has forgotten that he ever played football."

I like Bing Crosby's favorite yarn about the mainline idol who fell overboard while on a yachting trip. A pretty fair swimmer, he was doing all right until the yacht's spotlight centered on him. That was fatal. The poor guy took so many bows he drowned.

Mrs. Harwood Sturtevant Is Talking at Episcopal Church Today on Tour of Switzerland

THE presence of Mrs. Harwood Sturtevant and Mrs. De Witt C. West, both of Fond du Lac, in Appleton today is the direct result of a conversation last summer on the Rhine river in Germany. Fr. Gerard Scores Indifferentism in His Second Lecture

The indifferent mind, the one which views the multitude of religious opinions and creeds with a friendly, tolerant smile and says "What's the difference?", is the greatest enemy of truth because it destroys the love for truth because it prevents the mind from seeking for the truth. This was the theme of a lecture on "Indifferentism—An American Heresy" given at St. Joseph's hall under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus, was heard by a capacity crowd.

"America," Father Gerard said, "has become special breeding ground for religious indifferentism. The explanation is to be found in the fact that this country is virtually a cross section of the population of the old world. It has by far a greater diversity of religious beliefs than any other country in the world. Every new prophet finds a happy hunting ground here. 'The spectacle of a thousand different sects each insisting on some certain feature of truth, other lack and which it alone has, so overwhelms the ordinary man of the street that he is left in a daze of bewilderment and confusion. How is he to find time to investigate each one?'

The natural reaction, the speaker continued, is to feel that it does not matter much after all what a man believes as long as he does what is right. It is to be found in the path of least resistance, and it harmonizes with the particular American emphasis that is placed upon action rather than upon thinking. Father Gerard charged.

It is the principle of the supremacy of private judgment in the interpretation of Scripture which is responsible for the present widespread disintegration and anarchy of hundreds of warring creeds, he went on to say. The principle which has made Christianity to be a faithless stock of the pagan world, causing it to exclaim to the missionaries, "When you first agree among yourselves, then come and tell us the truth."

More Than 550 Persons at Annual 'Hard Time' Party

Clintonville—A crowd of more than 550 persons attended the second annual "hard time" dance given by the Clintonville Fish and Game Protective association Saturday evening at the local armory. Jack Gould, route 2, Clintonville, was the announcer for the square dances.

Prizes for the best "old time" costumes were won by Mrs. A. C. Cather and Mrs. Lena Ruddy. Awards for hard time apparel went to Mrs. Martin Falk, George Dandley, and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Wetmore. Judges were: Louis Fandry, Arthur Steenbock, Jack Juetten and Eric Peterson.

About $50 profit was realized from the event and will be used to finance the pheasant propagation program and to continue the winter bird feeding activities. About 65 feeding stations within a ten-mile radius of Clintonville are visited and replenished weekly by members of the local conservation club. Some of the feeders are located as far as a half mile from the highway, sometimes making it necessary to use skis or snowshoes to reach them after a snowstorm. The feeding committees report seeing as many as ten pheasants fly up from the shelters when they approach. Quail and other birds are also found to be feeding there. Corn stalks and old discarded Christmas trees have been placed around the feeders to provide shelter for the birds.

George Graff is president of the Clintonville Fish and Game club, which is still continuing its membership campaign to bring its membership to 1,000.

James Werner, James Bodoh and Billy Brill were at Wausau Saturday afternoon, Feb. 4, where they took part in ice skating events. Werner won first place in the 410 and in the 810 yard dash; while Bodoh placed second and Brill third in the 810. These three Clintonville boys had previously won places in skating events at New London and Waupaca, thereby representing Waupaca county in the competition. Skaters from New London and Waupaca also participated in some of the skating events at the ice carnival held at the Wausau fair grounds.

Mother Living With Children Wonders What to Do About It

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I am one of those women who are perpetual guests in their children's homes, shunted from one to another, so that none of them may have an overdose of mother. My children are all prosperous. They live in nice houses. Have new cars every two years. Have beautiful clothes. Take expensive trips, etc. They are kind and dutiful to me and they pay themselves on the back because they give me a roof over my head and food and clothes, and on Christmas and Mothers Day send me a few dollars, and they think how lucky Mother is to have someone to care for her. But I have no liberty whatever and no money, and I know that none of them really wants me with them because they are absorbed in their own families. In a way I interfere with their lives. There are thousands of other women like me. Why can't our children realize how much better off we would be if they would let us go and live on our own in which to live? Or if there was only some hotel for old people, such as you described in a recent article, where we could go to live and know that we were wanted and where we would feel free and independent.

A MOTHER.

Answer:—A pathetic old woman with a funnybone that she had evidently managed to keep intact through all the vicissitudes of a hard life, recently wrote me that she had read of a savage tribe somewhere who killed off all the old women who had become a charge upon their children. She wanted to know if I knew the address of these people. She said she proposed to emigrate and join them, as she would rather be knocked in the head than have her heart broken by her children who showed her that they thought her in the way.

Many another old mother has felt the same way about her situation in her children's homes, yet it is rarely the result of their sons and daughters being mean and cruel, or of begrudging them a shelter in their old age. It is just because human nature is human nature. No two generations can change its habits and its point of view, and no two generations can live in peace and harmony together. It is easier for the lion and the lamb to lie down together in amity than for Grandma and Granddaughter to agree on the wearing of shorts and how late the boy friend should stay.

There is no problem that we use so little sense in trying to solve as that of what to do with our old fathers and mothers. Tradition has it that when anything happens to break up the old home, Father and Mother must be taken into their children's homes, where they are supposed to live perfectly happy ever afterward, no matter if they are taken thousands of miles away from the environment in which they have spent their lives and from the friends of a lifetime.

That the old people are miserable as strangers in a strange land; that they are humiliated at having lost their identity and being nobody but Bob's or Mamie's mother and father; that they cannot adjust themselves to a new way of living or adopt new ways, goes without saying.

Nor can those who have been the heads of their own houses endure taking a back seat in somebody else's. Nor can those who have been busy all their lives stand enforced idleness. They have to have something to do and, having no business of their own, they inevitably meddle in everybody else's.

The result is, of course, disaster. Miserable Father and Mother make everybody else miserable. Husbands and wives resent their in-laws and homes are broken up by the quarrels over Mary's mother and Tom's father. The grandchildren will not stand Grandmother's and Grandfather's dictation and being told how sinful are all the things they do.

Thousands of families live in stress and turmoil because the old and the young no more mix than oil and water, who might be happy if only they had sense and courage enough to solve their problem by all the children clubbing together and giving Mother and Father enough money to live on in their own way, independent and free, instead of making them unwelcome guests in their houses.

Master Shows Special Twist In Bridge Hand

BY ELY CULBERTSON

The difference between an expert and a master is not always perceptible. In most hands the play of both is characterized simply by extreme soundness and, whenever possible, safety. Every so often, however, a hand occurs in which the master applies some little twist of special treatment that raises him above the level of the expert. Note the two methods of play employed in the following hand, which occurred in a recent match-point duplicate game:

THE BIDDING:

North East South West

1 heart Pass 2 clubs Pass

2 hearts Pass 3 no trump Pass

Pass Pass

At one table where the declarer, South, was a very good player, but not quite a master, West opened the jack of spades and the play proceeded as follows: Dummy's queen was put up immediately. This was a vital play inasmuch as declarer had only one sure entry, the spade ace, and would have to try to preserve it, in case the club finesse went wrong and West could hold up the club king. As will be seen, that condition obtained. West allowed the club ten to hold and if declarer had not retained his spade ace he would never have been able to bring home his long club suit. On a second club lead East showed out, so declarer went up with the ace and cleared the suit at the third round. West continued spades. Declarer won, cashed the rest of his diamonds and then collected the ace of hearts. In all, he took eleven tricks, which turned out to be only an average match-point score.

At another table where a nationally known master sat South, the first two plays went exactly the same, that is the spade queen held the first trick and the club ten then was led. But here, when West held up his club king, the declarer made a play which was highly imaginative and yet completely sound. He laid down the diamond ace from dummy before trying a second club finesse! The safety of this play must be apparent: Declarer was going to finesse again against the club king and, if he lost, he would lose the diamond queen. (The value of the play will be apparent in a moment.) The second club finesse lost to West and, as was to be expected, he returned a spade. It would have taken near clairvoyance on West's part to have returned the diamond jack after taking the club king, but we will see what the failure to make this return led to.

Declarer won the spade return and rattled off every club he held. His last club was led his holding was the heart jack, the Q-8 of diamonds, and the three of clubs. West's holding at this point did not matter, inasmuch as he never had a heart stronger. Dummy still had the A-K 8 of hearts and the five of diamonds, and discarded the last named card on declarer's club. East, however, did not find it so simple to discard. His four cards were the 10-7-6 of hearts and the king of diamonds. What could he do? If he let go a heart, dummy's three hearts would become good. But obviously his discard of the diamond king (proper under the circumstances since his partner might hold the queen) was just as fatal to the defense. Declarer now could cash the diamond queen and eight before leading to dummy's heart ace. Thus, the master play of cashing the diamond ace before taking the second club finesse (Vienna coup) resulted in twelve tricks and a top on the board for this particular North-South team.

Of course, West would have salvaged a trick by returning the diamond jack after winning with his club king, but, as I have said, how could he possibly tell (a) that East had the diamond king or (b) that failure to lead a diamond would result in his loss?

Party Recipes

Since February is a month of holidays and parties, you may be hunting for smart new ideas. No matter what the occasion for which you are planning, be it a party for Washington's birthday, Lincoln's birthday, Valentine's day or a special celebration of your own here are suggestions that will make any party a gala affair, and what's more your guests will acknowledge the fact that you are always the one to serve the smartest and newest dishes.

Light and fluffy, Cherry Angel Food is a perfect cake for any party. Double duty cookies are these Part Cookies, as they can be used as Valentine cookies for Washington's birthday. Children will love them and will be continually asking for more of them. The February Salad is very appropriate and colorful but can be used at any time.

Cherry Angel Food

1-1/2 cups egg whites 1 tsp. flavoring

1 cup cake flour 1 cup cake flour

1-1/2 cups cream 3 oz. bottle of tartar

1/2 teaspoon salt 1/2 cup cherries, drained

1/2 cups granulated sugar

Beat egg whites with flat whip. Add cream of tartar and salt when whites are frothy. Continue beating until a point of the egg whites will stand upright when whip is pulled out. Gradually beat in 1 cup of the sugar. Fold in flavoring. Sift flour once before measuring. Fold in the flour which has been sifted 3 times with the remaining 1/2 cup sugar. Pour 1/2 of cake batter into ungreased angel food pan. Cut cherries in quarters and drain on cloth. Sprinkle some of the cherries over batter. Add another 1/2 of batter and more cherries. Continue alternately batter and cherries until batter is all in pan and cherries evenly distributed. Bake in a slow moderate oven 35 degrees F. Invert pan until cake is entirely cool.

Party Cookies

1 cup butter 1/2 tsp. baking powder

1 egg 1 tsp. lemon juice

3 cups flour

Cream butter, add sugar gradually and cream thoroughly. Add well beaten egg and lemon juice. Sift flour and baking powder together, and add to creamed mixture mixing well. Roll out to thin sheet, 1/16 inch thick and cut with small cookie cutters into various shapes, hearts, diamonds and rounds, etc. Bake 10 minutes in a moderate oven 350 degrees F.

For Valentine Cookies—Cut cookies with heart shaped cutter. Brush them lightly with a little egg white which has been whipped to a foam. Then sprinkle with red sugar. Or cut cookies with a round cutter and place a tiny red candy heart in the center of each cookie.

Washington's Birthday Cookies—Decorate cookies with bunches of cherries or hatchets. Cut small round cherries from red candied cherries and place them on the cookies in groups of three with little stems of green citron and a leaf or two at the top of the cluster of three cherries. Little candy hatchets can be placed on some of the cookies. Or cookies can be cut with a hatchet shaped cookie cutter.

February Salad

2 packages 1 cup sliced

cherry gelatin peaches,

3 cups boiling chopped

water 3 oz. bottle

1 cup cold water Maraschino

3 canned pear cherries

Reserve 6 cherries for garnishing

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add cold water. Take out 1 cup and set aside. Pour remaining gelatin into individual ring molds, which have been rinsed in cold water. To the 1 cup of gelatin mixture add 1/2 cup chopped pears, peaches and maraschino cherries. Pour this fruit mixture into small timbale molds that will fit inside the ring molds. Set in refrigerator until firm. At serving time unmold ring molds on to lettuce cups. Then unmold fruit molds into center ring. Garnish with whole cherries and mayonnaise dressing.

My Neighbor Says—

It pays to sprout potatoes before they are planted at least when an early crop is desired. It is only necessary to place the potatoes in shallow boxes and set the boxes in a sunny cellar window until the sprouts are well started. Of course, considerable care must be exercised at planting time not to break these sprouts off, but this plan will give potatoes for the table two weeks earlier than when they are planted in the usual way.

One of New York's best "figure-buffers" has as her slogan, "Begin in the Middle!"

"Why?" I asked her.

"Because the organs upon which the major health and comfort of the body depend, are situated in the middle of the body. There they hang in a cave-like area known as the abdominal cavity. Supporting them, like a great elastic band, are large, sheath-like muscles. In this area, too, are important veins, arteries and nerve centers. Glands and ductless glands that strongly affect and regulate the body functions are there. Yet the middle of the body—the most vital area—is usually its most neglected portion."

She went on to assure me that it is more frequently thickness than weight which proclaims the passing of youth. Middle age begins in the middle!

Strengthen Abdomen and Slim Waist

So youth, and a youthful figure depend greatly on exercises which are specific movements to strengthen and firm the muscles of the stomach, and those which keep the waist beautifully slimmed.

In my leaflet "Patricia Lindsay's Five Pet Exercises" there is a to your house are, let us say, so influenced by fashion as to be critical, then it would be best not to use the cloth this way. On the other hand, I think that you are entirely right to enjoy it rather than to leave it lying useless on a shelf.

A Rule of Etiquette

Dear Mrs. Post: My wife and I were recently invited to the house of friends to dinner. We knew they expected another man and his wife—friends of theirs whom we had not met but whom we were invited to meet on this occasion. We arrived promptly at seven, as we were asked to, and we waited for about twenty minutes and still the other people did not come. The host suggested to his wife that he serve cocktails while we were waiting, and she said no, that it would be impolite not to wait for the others. When they arrived more than a half hour late, they apologized and explained that they had been delayed in traffic. Dinner having already been delayed, they were served a cocktail and by the hostesses hurried movements we knew we were expected to gulp the cocktail and be ready as quickly as possible to go into the dining-room. My opinion is that even though the other man and wife were, as was quite apparent, the guests of first importance, this was no reason why we should have been expected to sit and wait indefinitely for them. Will you tell me what etiquette provides for such situations. My wife is inclined to agree with the hostesses.

Answer: Fifteen minutes is as long as any host should wait before serving cocktails to the first comers. At the end of fifteen minutes more they should then go in to dinner. In other words, the man and his wife who came late would have missed the cocktails just as all late-comers should expect to do.

After-Dinner Coffee Cups Play New Role

Dear Mrs. Post: Could the small after-dinner coffee cups be used for anything other than after-dinner coffee? I have received some of these small cups from a friend for Christmas and as our strong black coffee drinking is limited to the times when we have guests, because we ourselves do not drink coffee, I wondered if it were possible to put these very lovely cups to some other use than that for which they are normally intended.

Answer: You can use them for very rich chocolate (not cocoa) with whipped cream on top, and possibly for bouillabaisse at an afternoon or evening reception. You couldn't use them for anything else that I can think of.

TABLE COVERING

Dear Mrs. Post: May I lace tablecloth be left on the dining table between meals? I have a beautiful cloth and never seem to be able to use it as a table cover since the cloth does not seem adequate to cover the table for dinner and never give lunch parties. My family also never comes home for the midday meal and so I can't even use the cloth for our family lunches.

Boys Long to Conquer Fears But They Need Parents' Help

BY ANGELO PATRI

Every boy wants to be brave. That instinct is born in him. Boys hate their fears and long with a mighty longing to conquer them. Fear is the low-level instinct. It is easy to arouse. It is easy to defend. It is a necessary force in life because it calls for an ally of the higher order to make its force a wholesome one. Without courage fear will destroy the boy.

Now we know that fear is manifested a short time after birth. Courage, which is the will to resist fear, may come soon afterward, but unless it is made welcome and strongly cultivated, it will not abide in the same soul with fear. It has to conquer fear, you see, or be killed by it. All boys want to know how to conquer fear and maintain courage.

It is largely a matter of training. Given sound health any boy can cultivate courage. Fear is insidious. It seeps into the crevices of the spirit as water seeps through sand. A boy weakens and knows he ought to get up. Fear tells him that it is cold outside, and he shivers and gets down further under the blankets. This is a trial. If the boy lets the fear of the cold overcome him, he is one link more under the bondage of fear. If he calls up his will and defies the cold, he is one up on the winning side of courage.

This struggle goes on day after day. In a thousand little ways fear seeps into the thought, and courage rises to push it out. If the boy calls on his will and fights, fear loses out; and the oftener this happens the stronger his courage will be. It takes a long time though to build up courage to the degree where it becomes the controlling force of the mind. There are many ways by which fear can enter his mind and the boy be quite unconscious of the struggle going on. Unless he is on guard and ready to fight for courage, he is likely to be taken unaware and undone by unrecognized fear.

What makes a boy say Yes when he really wants to say No? Why does he vote Yes when he thinks No? Why does he laugh when he longs to scowl, go along when he wants to hang back, behave as the others behave when he wishes with all his sleepy head that he could behave for himself? All because he is afraid. Courage is the high-level quality of the mind. He is staying on the lower level of the mind where the easy and obvious way is set. He would have to stretch and make himself grow up to that higher level, but he hasn't what it takes to get there. He is afraid.

It takes courage to stand up and say, "I see it this way," when the crowd sees it another way. It takes courage to take oneself by the back of the neck and march oneself right up to the bar of duty and say, "Jump." And that's what a boy must do to place courage on top of fear. He must face the thing that he hates to do and do it. And taking oneself by the back of the neck, right up to the bar of duty, and saying, "Jump," is the only way it is ever done. Everybody is afraid, but only the weak stay afraid for any length of time.

Jump, boy, jump.

Bart Ehlers brought a new interest into Noel's strange summer. "This is charming—it must be fun working here," she told him when they visited the remodeled barn on Sunday.

Ehlers, showing her about, was like a little boy with a whole flock of new toys. He had her examine the lighting effects, explaining the new dross that were coming up from New York.

Together they read some of the manuscripts Ehlers had brought with him. Under the shade tree for the few afternoons he was there, and in the old old Victorian parlor on nights after their early supper.

Noel missed him when he moved up to Weston and the nucleus of his company joined him. She was nervously restless. A dozen times she was on the verge of going back to New York—asking Swanson's advice. She'd have to do something soon. There was the fall season ahead, and she couldn't afford to be idle. Board at Mrs. Winters' was ridiculously cheap; she had no other expenses except the money she spent to be driven over to the Weston Playhouse.

"Why don't you come on over here?" Ehlers asked her the second time she went over and watched a rehearsal. "You're bored now. I can tell. And that's the worst thing in the world for an actress."

"You mean you'd give me a part in your plays?"

Ehlers was exuberant. "If only you would!" He was planning her vehicle already. "Now I've got a play that needs someone like you."

"He was off on a wild rush of enthusiasm, trying to persuade her. 'We can't pay your salary, Noel—' she was Noel to him now—but as long as you're up here—"

The first evening performance brought out a surprisingly small audience. Summer colonists in nearby resorts and a sprinkling

When you are bending over to the right as far as you can go (keeping the position described in Part II) slowly lift your left heel off the floor and bend more sharply to the right. You will feel a stretching of your entire left side from toe to hands.

Slowly return heel to floor, come to erect position with arms still overhead, then drop arms and relax.

Reverse the movement—stretching your right side—and repeat each ten times.

In my leaflet "Beautifying Your Midriff" there is a beautiful exercise for both the thin and stout woman. Be sure to enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope when you send for it.

A Short History of China
II—China's Greatest Teacher
Several men stand out in China's history as great teachers, but the greatest of them all was Confucius. His life and work did much to shape the history of his country.

The name "Confucius" seems rather odd for a Chinaman. It grew out of the Chinese name "Kung Fu."

Today in China there is a great cemetery of the Kung family. Thousands of men and women have been buried there, and all are supposed to be related in one way or another to Confucius. The great teacher's grave is there; his remains rest in a tomb covered by a mound of earth.

Confucius lived about 500 years before the birth of Christ. He was not a king, but during some years of his long life he was a public officer, and did what he could to make people see that it was a mistake to commit crimes.

Most of his life, however, was spent in study, travel and preaching. He had hundreds of disciples who followed him from place to place to listen to his words. Here are a few of the things he taught:

"If we know enough, we will lead good lives. When we find out what is wrong, and the trouble we might do with wrongful deeds, we will not do them."

"Study will help to keep us on the right path. It is well to know music and poetry."

"Let princes and others in public office set a good example. In this way they will lead people to right lives as surely as the grass bends when the wind blows."

"If we start something, and find it is a mistake, we must stop it. If a person sees the right, and does not follow it, he is a coward."

Confucius also taught a form of the Golden Rule. The meaning of his words is given like this, "Do not do unto others what you would not have them do unto you."

Confucius said he was not sure of a life after death. "The important thing," he declared, "is to make sure that this life is lived in the right way."

When their master died at the age of 72, the disciples of Confucius were filled with sorrow. Some of them built huts near his grave and lived there for three years. One disciple is famed because he stayed after the rest had left; he spent a total of six years near the grave.

Confucius had a little honor during his life, and a great deal after his death. A religion of a sort was made up out of his teachings. Today there are about 300,000,000 persons in China who are classed as "followers of Confucius."

CHICAGO — (AP) — Ohio State's leadership in the Big Ten basketball race lasted just two days — until it met the robust Hoosiers of Indiana.

The Hoosiers, playing their first league game in three weeks, replaced the Buckeyes as the No. 1 team last night by defeating the Ohioans, 46 to 34, before 6,500 customers at Bloomington. The losers had taken the pinnacle Saturday with a victory over Minnesota.

Illinois also advanced by easily downing Iowa, 34 to 26, and Purdue, last year's titleholder, emerged with a 39 to 31 decision over Wisconsin.

Three In 2nd Place
The Illinois victory and Ohio State defeat left these two teams and Minnesota tied for second place with five wins in seven conference games. Purdue's triumph pulled the Boilermakers from a seventh place tie to fifth position.

Jimmy Hull, league leading scorer, was the only Ohio player able to hit consistently against the Hoosiers, scoring 14 points, but accurate shooting by Marvin Huffman and Emil Andres of Indiana annulled his efforts.

Lewis (Pick) Dehner, center, carried the offensive load for the Illinois, scoring 17 points while his co-star, forward Bill Hapac, was in the hospital with an attack of flu. Captain Ben Stephens, Iowa's ace, accounted for 11 points.

Indiana's newly-acquired leadership of the loop will be on the block Saturday when Iowa enters the Hoosiers at Iowa City. Illinois can move into undisputed possession of second place over idle Minnesota and Ohio State teams by trimming Purdue, Chicago and Northwestern meet in the third conference game that night.

BADGERS LOSE
LaPayette, Ind. — Sharpshooting from the foul line helped Purdue university beat Wisconsin, 39 to 31, here last night and move into fifth place of the Big Ten basketball standing.

The victory gave the Boilermakers a record of two games won and lost in loop play and made Wisconsin's score, two and four.

Wisconsin got 12 field goals to Purdue's 11, but the Boilermakers made good 17 of their 24 free throws while the Badgers scored only half their 14.

Purdue led throughout except for a short period in the first half. The Boilermakers were ahead, 22 to 11, at half time, and withstood a late Badger rally which put the score once at 32-20.

Dodgers Boast Fast Outfield
Coach Charley Drensen Says It Can Out Run, Out Throw Anything

Hot Springs, Ark. — (AP) — Any lurking suspicions that the Brooklyn Dodgers are decrepit were dispelled today by Coach Charley Drensen.

"Say," he said, "we've got an outfield that can out run and out throw any other regular outfield in the National League."

Drensen, outfielder Tuck Stainback and infielder Harry Lavagetto are here for 10 days of conditioning before Manager Leo Durocher and Dodger pitchers and catchers arrive.

"We've got Stainback, Ernie Coy and Gene Moore. You can't find a more capable bunch of fly chasers in the league. Of course we've got some veterans on the club but the young men are going to do the playing," Drensen added.

Drensen is supervising conditioning work for Lavagetto and Stainback.

After making a fine start with Brooklyn last year their legs buckled under them.

"Yes," said Lavagetto, "they just gave out. I played most of the time with 'em taped up. But they're getting in shape now."

Stainback attributed his ailment to inactivity early in the season.

In an effort to prevent a recurrence, they're acting two hours of mountain climbing and 12 holes of golf here daily.

Giants Vary Things By Signing a Scout
New York — (AP) — The New York Giants added a little variety to the routine announcements of signing of players yesterday by announcing the signing of a scout, Eddie Ainsmith, former major league catcher, will look over prospects for the Giants in the Eastern Division.

Signed contracts of Clyde Castleman, pitcher; Harry Gumbert, pitcher, and Jim Rippe, outfielder, were received at the Giants today.

Vikings won the first round championship of the National division in the Older Boys league when they nipped Lincoln Hi-Y by a 23 to 22 score during games at Y.M.C.A. gymnasium last night. Zephyrs won the first-round title in the American league with their fifth straight win Saturday. First and second round titlists in the two divisions will tangle at the end of the season with winners meeting for the Older Boys league championship.

The second round of play will get underway in the American division Saturday and the National division next Monday.

The Vikings took an early 4 to 1 lead over Lincoln cagers and showed advantages of 8 to 5 at halftime and 16 to 13 at the end of the third stanza. A Lincoln rally in the fourth quarter fell short. Janke and Rohloff paced the winners while Heid and Choudon were outstanding for the losers.

Badgers Won
Badgers downed the Mercury after the score was knotted at 4 to 4 at the end of the first quarter. Mercury went scoreless in the second quarter while Badgers netted eight points and the Badgers showed a 14 to 9 edge going into the final frame. Lesselyong and Bartman sparked the losers while Kamps made five buckets for the victors.

Foulers beat Buckeyes but only after a 26 to 24 struggle. Buckeyes were handicapped when they lost their wrist in the second quarter. Foulers held 13 to 12 edge at halftime but the Buckeye quartet knotted the game at 17-all at the end of the third period. Campbell and Shimmers starred for the winners.

Chaffin Chatter
By Gordon H. McIntyre

Dear Mac,
Expected you back by this time but hear you are having your "ups and downs," so will dash off a couple things that might interest you.

True to form, I frosted my feet while taking in the winter sports festival but they weren't frozen solid like the previous Sunday at the New London ski meet. The festival got a nice break in the weather, though, and the number of spectators exceeded expectations. The sponsors plan a bigger and better program next year though it is difficult to see how it could be improved upon to any great extent.

An outgrowth of the informal ski meet will be a tournament between Appleton youths and riders from the junior ski club of New London. Competition Sunday was more or less irregular as the event was planned as an exhibition but they'll be jumping for keeps when the two groups clash in the near future.

Cooney Hinkens, Little Chute, one of Pop Currie's pin setters, has challenged Spang, young Menasha kegler, to a match. Bob Martz of Kaukauna recently lost to Spang in a 10-game match. Hinkens has averaged 184 in 54 games this season.

Jack O'Dea, Appleton, whose real name is Ed Otto, was up here with blood in his eye tother day and wanted a couple of things made clear—Otto, Jack's brother, in a mat show at S. A. Cook armory in the Twin Cities last week and Jack didn't like the way Jungle Joe was doing things. He challenged Jungle Joe to a finish fight, two out of three falls.

Now then—Jack says the bout will be staged Feb. 15 at Cook armory and asks the promoter to confirm it. He adds that he expects "to wrestle Jungle Joe Bawers and not some unspectacular substitute . . . and if they're planning any funny stuff—" Well, anyway, you get the idea that he is not a little upset about the whole thing.

Phil Zwick, Kaukauna fistic flash, is training for his coming fight with Dave Castilleux at Maple Leaf Gardens at Toronto and writes you a very nice letter. (Hope you don't mind if I open your mail. It's after the first of the month, anyway.) Phil says he knows he has his work cut out for him Feb. 13 and is working hard. An enclosed article from the Toronto Star states "Both Castilleux and Zwick beat Armando Sicilia handily, which strengthens the opinion that they are a well-matched pair and that their forthcoming battle will be one of the highlights of the so-far brief boxing year."

The paper goes on to state that "Globe-Trotter Zwick is in fine fettle these days. Not only does he look like a champion in training but he is highly hopeful that he will be a world champion before the year is over. . . . This Toronto bout becomes a most important one for both fighters."

Sure hope this finds you in better condition than my feet.

Yours truly,

Dick Davis.

Blue Streaks Will Encounter Waupaca, Marshfield Sextets

Appleton Blue Streaks will tangle with a Waupaca sextet on the Jones park hockey rinks at 8:30 this evening. The locals downed Waupaca by a 5 to 2 margin in a previous encounter this season.

Marshfield will invade Jones park rink for a battle at 8:30 Wednesday evening. The game was scheduled last week but postponed because of inclement weather and bad road conditions. The hat will be passed and funds will go toward defraying expenses to the state tournament.

Tracy, regular goalie who has been confined to the bench with an injured hand, will be available for duty tonight along with Bradford and Everett, Lawrence college players who have been occupied with semester exams.

$1,400,000 Track To Reopen Shortly

Hollywood, Fla. — (AP) — Gulfstream park, $1,400,000 horse track which opened with the biggest racing throng in Florida's history and closed after four days, will reopen shortly if its youthful president has his way.

John C. Horning, 28-year-old contractor who started building the plant for others and took it over as his own project when the original backers dropped it, said the first announcement was that the meeting had been cancelled it really was nothing more than a postponement.

Meanwhile the veil of mystery that first surrounded the sudden closing was lifted slightly. An associate of Horning's explained that the "mutual bankroll" about $50,000 which was held in the track in an armored car each day for use in the betting windows, was withdrawn.

"The money wasn't ours; it was arranged for," said Horning. "I knew nothing about the withdrawal until 11:30 o'clock yesterday. Naturally we couldn't obtain so large an amount of cash on such short notice so our races had to be temporarily postponed."

Merchants Nose Out Company D

Score Four Points in Final Minute of Play For 27 to 25 Win

Merchants nosed out Company D cagers, 27 to 25, in a basketball game played after drill at Armory G last night. The guardsmen held a 25 to 23 edge with one minute to play when Schroeder, Merchant guard, intercepted Fieblekorn's wild pass and drove in to knot the count. Paulie, Merchant star forward, then eluded Celavalki and dribbled in for the winning points and put an end to Company D's 8-game winning streak.

Paulie sparked the winners with five buckets and three free throws for thirteen points while Bauers plunked six field goals for twelve points to pace the losers.

Next week the guardsmen will tangle with News-Times cagers of Neenah in an effort to get back into the win column.

Tournament Dates are Feb. 23-26; Winner To Hartford

KIMBERLY — Ten teams from throughout the valley are enrolled in the sectional meet of the Hartford tournament which will be held at the clubhouse here Feb. 23, 24, 25 and 26. It is possible that 16 or more teams will take part in the tourney.

The teams signed up are Cris-Craft, Oshkosh; Elm Trees, Appleton; Bertrand Sports, Green Bay; Draheims Sport, Neenah; Little Chute AA's; Town Taxis, Appleton; Kimberly Reserves; News Times Neenah; CYO, Neenah; and Brillion City team.

The entries are open to all home talent amateur teams. The Kimberly AA's will not compete and may however play a few games during the tournament to boost the attendance.

Single Elimination
Ten players may be registered and all must be regular members of the teams and live within 10 miles of the team's city. The schedule and rules provide for single elimination. Drawings for pairings will take place at the Kimberly club at 8 o'clock Saturday evening Feb. 18.

All managers are invited to attend the drawing. Spaulding rules will be played. Four fouls and the 10-second rule will be used. Players are expected to abide by these rules and failure to do so will bar them and their team from any possibility of participating in prizes of any kind. Managers may check players list at any time. All protests must be made before a game. They will not be considered after the game has been played. The deadline for all entries will be Saturday Feb. 18.

Better Lighting
The purpose of the tournament is to decide the championship of the amateur talent basketball teams in the Fox river valley. The lighting in the clubhouse gym will be increased by eight 500-watt lamps at the time of the meet.

The entire amount of money received for entry fees will be spent for the purchase of prizes. In addition to this 20 per cent of the net proceeds will go to the winning team to help defray expenses. The winning team will go to the state tournament at Hartford. Every team competing there receives a portion of the net proceeds, depending on the number of games played. There will be two officials who will work every game.

Wheat Declines As Liquidation Appears in Trade

Prices Ease Major Fractions to Lowest Levels Since December

CHICAGO (AP)—Mild liquidation developed in the wheat pit today and prices declined major fractions to the lowest levels since last December.

Resting orders and some buying attributed to mills were encountered on the decline, however, and near the close prices were minor fractions within yesterday's finish.

B. W. Snow, crop expert, said the heavy increase in world surplus stocks had been the fundamental factor in the low range of wheat prices during the current crop season. World carryover on June 30 now is estimated at a possible 1,230,000,000 bushels against 855,000,000 a year ago. Present new crop prospects for northern hemisphere surplus-producing countries, Snow said, suggests a probable shrinkage, "possibly a serious one" in comparison with heavy yields last year.

Receipts were: Wheat 4 cars, corn 4, oats 36.

Wheat closed 1-1 down, May and July 68-68; corn unchanged to 1 down, May 49-1/2, July 50-1/2; oats unchanged to 1/2 lower, May 28-1/2, July 29-1/2; soybeans 1-1 higher, May 80-1/2, July 81-1/2; lower, May 4-1/2, July 5-1/2, Sept. 6-80.

Be A Careful Driver

NEW YEAR'S LOVE

by Angela Lorden

the townfolk, filled the atmosphere old barn. There was an informality about the occasion you didn't get in a big city theater. The audience applauded spontaneously—not politely. And Noel never had a better reception! They called her back again and again. She could hear a buzz of appreciation from the front rows.

Afterwards Ehlers brought a tall, stately, middle-aged woman to meet her. "This is Mrs. Bannister, Miss Martin. She's quite captivated by your work." There was a twinkle in Ehlers' eyes. He threw a quick glance at Noel, as much as to say, "If the lady only knew!"

"You're a splendid actress, Miss Martin. You belong in New York," Mrs. Bannister offered. Her speech was a combination of friendliness and condescension. "I've many friends in the theater," she said with an intimate touch. "We'll have to see what we can do for you."

Noel smiled secretly. To Mrs. Bannister she replied politely, "That's very kind of you."

Noel knew she hadn't forgotten her. At the last performance of the weekly engagement, there was the usual sell-out Saturday night business. Mrs. Bannister was back. Noel saw her well down front when she'd been on the stage a few minutes. She gasped in dismay, almost forgot her cue as she saw who was with her—Alva Greene, the second-string critic on the New York Star. The man was smiling cynically—she couldn't keep her eyes away from him. While she was playing in "Susan is Waiting" he had come backstage for an interview. She knew she'd have to see him again tonight!

"What's the idea?" he asked when Mrs. Bannister brought him back to Noel's tiny improvised dressing room, after the performance was over. He turned to Ehlers who was watching Noel's expression and his voice was satirical, a little triumphant, too.

"What's Noel Marchand doing here with the name of Martin?" His eyes were bright with avid curiosity, as though sensing a mystery. He was probing.

"I was here on vacation—" Noel's face was scarlet. She was angry, too, at Greene's "tell me the secret" manner. "Mr. Ehlers suggested I play this part—it interested me. That's all. Mr. Greene—there's really no mystery."

"How charming—I should have known," Mrs. Bannister was fluttering. Noel was politely responsive. Finally she said:

"Will you excuse me now—I'd like to get out of this costume."

caught you this time, Noel Marchand."

Wonderfully Peaceful
"Well, it's out now—" Noel sank wearily into her chair. Ehlers told her sympathetically.

"You expected something like this, didn't you, Noel?"

"I might as well go back to New York—it's been wonderfully peaceful here, working with you." Noel gave him an appreciative smile. "I guess I ought to get in touch with Swanstrom I know he's furious—but perhaps he'll forgive me." Noel thought she'd made a mess of things. How could she believe that by running away—it had been cowardly—she could solve her own problems?

"We'll be damn sorry to see you go," Ehlers sounded sincerely regretful.

They talked about her leaving when they launched together next day. "Some day this week, I'll go into town," Noel told Ehlers.

On Monday, because there was nothing else to do, Noel strolled over to the theater. She sat in the rear and watched Ehlers whipping the embryonic artists into their first rehearsal. During a pause in the activities, some of the cast saw her.

Betty Garland, the ingenue in this week's production, ran down the aisle and exclaimed with awe in her voice, "Miss Marchand—we didn't know—we should have. I'm thrilled to have worked with you."

Ehlers, ambling up to them, interrupted. "Never mind, Betty. Brush up on those lines. I want to talk to Noel."

He took Noel through the wide exit, his arm holding hers tightly. "Too bad—about that story. Silly stuff to write."

"What story?" Noel had a premonition—it was Greene, of course.

"Haven't you seen it?" Ehlers was frankly surprised. He fumbled awkwardly. "In 'this morning's Star. The gang's been eating it up.' Ehlers got her the copy, left her alone. There it was on the first page of the second section—the two-column head, over a picture of Noel. With fear that mounted to anger as she read it, Noel went through the whole thing. Part was the truth, the rest was supposition, and reporting the rumors on Broadway.

The gist of the article was that Noel had left "Susan is Waiting" the same night she jilted the wealthy man she was to marry—practically on the eve of the wedding. Had disappeared, leaving no trace. And had been discovered under another name playing in a small summer stock company.

Every detail was there—her present whereabouts, her record in the theater. Tears of fury filled Noel's eyes. She hurried back to the inn.

"New York's been calling you," the lanky proprietor of the place informed her. "Several times." He was obviously impressed.

"Thank you," was all Noel replied.

"Shall I get them for you?" The man, curiously watching her, was reaching for the phone.

Noel declined and started for her room.

"I'm going back to Mrs. Winters," she told Ehlers, after she'd hurriedly packed her bags. "I don't want to talk to anyone now. Why can't they let me alone?"

It was to the comparative quiet of Mrs. Winters' house that Ehlers brought a thick-set young man two mornings later. "This is Mike Howe of Criterion Productions," he told Noel. "He wants to arrange a screen test for you."

Noel turned angrily on the visitor. "I've played three seasons on Broadway, and Hollywood wasn't interested in my work. Now because a lot is printed about me, you think maybe I'll do."

"I wouldn't say that, Miss Marchand," Howe replied placatingly. "A test doesn't mean a contract—even in Hollywood. But it's a big chance for you. You shouldn't mind as long as you're getting publicity."
